ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given so that the audience may more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavor.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 122nd year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty engaged in teaching, research and public service, 409 campus buildings, and more than 5,100 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 17 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, University College, Urban Development, and Veterinary Medicine. Some 165 programs of instruction are available to undergraduates; 76 departments offer graduate studies.

MSU is unique nationally in that the Colleges of Human Medicine, Osteopathic Medicine, and Veterinary Medicine are located on the single campus.

The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, comprised of an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its system of academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Each of these nine halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The "small college within the larger university" concept was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, which offers a limited enrollment liberal education program with an international emphasis. The concept was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

Today, almost 45,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 85 percent are from Michigan; the remainder includes nearly 1,200 foreign students from 90 countries.

MICHIGAN STATE

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching. All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 3,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include the Control Data 6500 computer, a cyclotron of the sector-focused type capable of accelerating protons to 50 MeV (60,000 miles per second), and the MSU Observatory which houses a 24-inch reflecting telescope, a computer and related equipment. Modern facilities include the following buildings: chemistry, biochemistry, psychology research, veterinary medicine, plant science research, natural resources, food science, pesticide research, and life sciences.

Through an agreement with the Energy Research Development Administration, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

In broadening the scope of educational opportunity, MSU is building on its long experience in continuing education to develop a Lifelong Education Program which will offer University resources to persons who are educationally or economically excluded from the traditional campus programs; to those who seek new skills or wish to update present skills; and to those who wish through education to make their leisure time more productive. The Program also will enable the University to cooperate with local communities in assessing, developing, and expanding their continuing education projects.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects on a world-wide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

GEORGE W. BALL

Your career as public servant, diplomat, counselor to presidents and heads of foreign governments has earned for you an international reputation for keen intelligence and thorough understanding of the vexing currents and counter-currents that sweep the modern world. You went to Washington after graduation from Northwestern University College of Law in 1933. You became a part of the celebrated New Deal of Franklin Roosevelt, working for the Farm Credit Administration and the Treasury Department, and following Pearl Harbor in the Lend-Lease Administration. In 1945, you became an advisor to the French Supply Council in Washington. As a specialist in international law and commercial relations, you divided your time between Washington and Western Europe in the preliminary work that led to the creation of the European Coal and Steel Community and later the European Common Market. In the Kennedy Administration, you served as Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs and later became the Under Secretary of State in the Department of State. Resigning in 1966, you joined the Lehman Brothers law firm in New York City. Shortly thereafter at the request of President Johnson, you agreed to become Ambassador to the United Nations, after which you again returned to Lehman Brothers. Through distinguished public service, you have won the U.S. Medal of Freedom, the Belgian Grand Cross of the Order of the Crown, and are an Officer of the French Legion of Honor. In recognition of your outstanding contributions, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

MARIO BARBOSA

After completing your graduate work in microbiology and public health at Michigan State University, you have established a distinguished career as a research scientist and educator in your native country of Brazil. Your dynamic leadership has helped to develop one of the finest schools of veterinary medicine in South America at the Federal University of Minas Gerais. While pursuing research in microbiology, you have also been concerned with its application, and thus your contributions to statewide extension activities in Brazil are a real force in the improvement of public health and medical education. While doing a remarkable job in bringing together a competent and highly-motivated faculty for your school, you have worked effectively with people and institutions nationally and internationally. In 1969, you received the Nestle prize trophy for research in dermatofiloses and were honored as one of the ten most distinguished agricultural scientists in Minas Gerais. In 1974, the State of Minas Gerais awarded you its Medal of the Hour. In addition to being Dean of the Veterinary College at Minas Gerais, you have served as Vice President of the World Association for Higher Education in Agriculture. Because of the credit that you have brought to yourself and to your alma mater, and your continuing noteworthy contributions to science, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Science.

ERNEST O. MELBY

Your career as a teacher, educational administrator, author, and philosopher has earned you a reputation as an outstanding educator of our times. Your eager spirit, intellectual vigor, faith in people, and devotion to excellence in education are qualities that have distinguished you as a professor, a dean of two colleges of education, a university chancellor and president. When criticism swept the schools after World War II, you analyzed the issues, answered the critics, and inspired teachers everywhere to renew their faith in freedom and education. You came to Michigan State University in 1956 for a one-year assignment after retiring as Dean of Education at New York University, and remained with us for 19 years. You retired as distinguished professor emeritus from the Department of Administration and Higher Education in 1975. Currently you serve as consultant to the Mott Foundation. You have helped them foster a training program for superintendents and community educators involving unusual cooperation among Michigan's seven state institutions. Your co-workers have come to respect you as a model learner in the universal community of democratic ideas. You have been a driving force in the humanization of education throughout more than 60 years of service in five careers. You have earned the special title among those who know your work as the "Dean of Community Education." Michigan State University salutes your example and your spirit, and is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

BAYARD RUSTIN

Your career glows with a deep concern for the underprivileged. Your courageous fight against the oppressive forces which discriminate against minorities has led to significant contributions in civil rights legislation. In 1947 you participated in the first Freedom Ride. You served on a chain gang in North Carolina and your report of this experience led to the abolition of the chain gang in that state. Your work as chairman of the Free India Committee led the Congress Party of India to invite you to that country several times. In the early 1950's you traveled to Africa to oppose racial discrimination. Your work with the A. Philip Randolph Committee Against Discrimination in the Armed Forces led to President Truman's executive order eliminating segregation in the military. Dr. Martin Luther King invited you to assist in the organization of the Montgomery, Alabama bus boycott, and the following year, you drew up plans for the founding of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. You coordinated a prayer pilgrimage of 35,000 persons to Washington in 1957, and directed youth marches for integrated schools. This was prologue to your activity as deputy director of the March on Washington in 1963 in which over 250,000 persons participated, paving the way for the Civil Rights Act of 1964. As author, speaker, and president of the A. Philip Randolph Institute you continue to demonstrate undiminished dedication to the cause of justice. In recognition of your personal devotion and sacrifice, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

ROBERTA APPLGATE

Class of 1940. Journalist. Educator. Associate Professor of Journalism at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas. She received the M.S. degree in journalism from Northwestern University in 1942 and after serving as a political reporter for The Associated Press in Lansing and as a staff writer for the Lansing State Journal and the Detroit Free Press she was named Press Secretary to former Michigan Governor Kim Sigler in 1947. She is one of the first women to have served in that capacity. From 1950 to 1964 she was a reporter and feature writer for the Miami Herald. In 1964 she was nominated for the Lasker Award for service to mental health and won several awards in the Florida Women's Press Club competition. Professor Applegate joined the Kansas State Faculty in 1964 as an assistant professor and head of the home economics and journalism program and as advisor to Theta Sigma Phi (now Women in Communications), and the Home Economics Journalism Club, professional honorary organizations for women in journalism. She was promoted to associate professor in 1973. In 1959 she was named an Outstanding Alumnus Journalist by the Theta Sigma Phi chapter at MSU and in 1971 was honored as Kansas Journalist of the Year by the Kansas State Chapter of Women in Communications. Professor Applegate is the daughter of the late A. A. Applegate, Chairman of the Journalism School at MSU from 1936 to 1955.

ARCHIE M. LONG

M.B.A. 1966. Administrator. Businessman. Community Leader. Comptroller for General Motors Corporation. Born in Altoona, Pennsylvania, he received the B.S. degree in business administration from Eastern Michigan University, a bachelor of commercial science degree from the Detroit Business Institute, and the master of business administration from the Graduate School of Business Administration at Michigan State University. Mr. Long joined General Motors Corporation in 1951 and became resident comptroller of Cadillac Motor Car Division in 1962. He was promoted to assistant divisional comptroller in 1963, and became comptroller of Packard Electric Division, Warren, Ohio, in 1966. In 1969 he was appointed assistant comptroller, General Motors Central Office, Detroit, and was serving in that position when he was appointed comptroller of General Motors Corporation in 1972. Mr. Long is a member of the board of Directors of the MSU College of Business Alumni Association and he is a member of the MSU Development Council.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

RICHARD D. MORRISON

Ph.D. 1954. Scholar. Academic Leader. Administrator. President of Alabama A&M University, Normal, Alabama. Dr. Morrison began his career in agricultural education at Tuskegee Institute where he earned the B.S. degree in 1931. In 1937 he was named director of the Division of Agriculture at Alabama A&M after several years of teaching vocational agriculture at the Talladega County Training School in Talladega, Alabama. He headed the Agriculture Division at A&M until 1962 when he was appointed president of the institution by the Alabama State Board of Education. In 1941 he received the M.A. degree from Cornell University with a major in education and a minor in economics. His thesis, titled, "Farms as Determinants in the Constructions of a Land-Grant College Curriculum" and his Ph.D. dissertation at MSU titled, "Occupational Opportunities in Agriculture and Related Fields and Their Implications for Agricultural Education of Negro Students," led to Dr. Morrison's leadership role in extending U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service revenue to the sixteen black Land-Grant institutions in the United States. In 1963 he was honored as "Alumnus of the Year" by Tuskegee Institute; in 1972 he was awarded the Huntsville-Madison County Chamber of Commerce's Distinguished Citizen Award, and in 1973 he was honored by the National Future Farmers Association with an Honorary American Farmer degree.
