ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, a leading land-grant university and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in providing students a broad curricula of liberal and practical education. MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension, and international programs.

Now in its 135th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research, and public service; more than 400 campus buildings; and more than 5,200 acres of land, of which some 2,100 acres are in existing or planned campus development. More than 40,000 students now attend the university at East Lansing, of which some 85 percent are from Michigan.

Michigan State University is committed to diversity and multiculturalism in its student body, in its faculty, in its staff, and in its curriculum and outreach programs. Our student body hails from every county in the State of Michigan, every state in the nation, and 110 foreign nations. Minority students comprise 11.7 percent of the campus population, and includes the largest number of African American students among all Big Ten schools.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day —farming— MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The university now has a Graduate School and 14 colleges —Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, and Veterinary Medicine.

At the center of all major universities is a cluster of disciplines that constitute the liberal arts and sciences. At MSU, this center consists of three colleges —Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. Providing outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines, these colleges also have special programs that enable students to obtain a broad multidisciplinary education. In addition, in collaboration with the College of Education, the three colleges prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan and the nation. These colleges touch the lives of all undergraduate students at MSU by providing the general education that constitutes approximately one-quarter of the undergraduate program. The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. MSU is proud of its record in producing Rhodes Scholars, a total of 14 (11 since 1971-71); the university also has provided 6 Marshall Scholarship winners; and 12 Churchill Scholarships. These British scholarships are two of the most distinguished and prestigious academic awards that an American student can receive. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of National Merit Scholars.

MSU adds to the store of knowledge with a wide array of outstanding research activities that are supported by a multimillion dollar sponsor-funding program. Some major facilities include the Pesticide Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of Energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W. K. Kellogg Biological Station, which has been designated as a National Research Preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU is examining the nuclei of the heaviest of elements.

Benefits of the university are brought to the public by the Agricultural Experiment Station, University Outreach, and the Cooperative Extension Service. Their programs provide technical information and formal course work for many Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 30,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

The university's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU maintains research and educational assistance projects on a worldwide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

HONORARY DEGREE

D. ALLAN BROMLEY

D. Allan Bromley, through four decades you have charted a path for science with a clear and unwavering vision. It is a remarkable vision that spans both the minutiae of human existence and the vast expanse of national policy.

Your life-long dedication to nuclear physics has earned you the distinction of being regarded as one of the fathers of modern heavy ion science. Your pioneering efforts to understand the structure and dynamics of nuclei are represented in the 450 papers you have written and the 18 books you have edited.

You have been most generous in sharing the fruits of your research with an enthusiasm that sparked the imagination and gratitude of your students. In your two decades at Yale University, more Ph.D.s in experimental nuclear science have been completed than in any other institution in the world.

Not content to confine your influence to one laboratory or university, you assumed the task of guiding the nation's science policy. From 1989 to 1993, you served as Assistant to the President for Science and Technology and subsequently as Director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy in the Executive Office of the President of the United States.

You revitalized and chaired the Federal Coordinating Council for Science, Engineering and Technology, achieving an unprecedented level of cooperation and communication among the more than 20 federal agencies that support U.S. Science and technology. You championed and clarified science and technology issues before Congressional Committees and through more than 400 addresses across the country.

Michigan State University is deeply indebted to you for writing a key section of the original proposal to establish a cyclotron. In more recent times, you have offered insight on current projects as a frequent consultant to our nuclear physics program.

Your balance of public service and personal support have earned you the gratitude of both the science community and those it serves. It is with great pride that Michigan State University awards you the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

HONORARY DEGREE

ERNEST G. GREEN

Ernest G. Green, you have taught us much about strength of purpose and commitment of heart.

From the day you walked into Little Rock Central High School, escorted by U.S. troops to allow you access to the equality guaranteed you by this nation, you have shown us how important it is to open doors that might be closed--whether they be doors to education, or to business success.

In 1957, three years after the U.S. Supreme Court had found school segregation to be unconstitutional, you were on the steps of the school, determined to enter. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had chosen you and eight other black students to integrate the school, although the governor of the State of Arkansas had ordered his National Guard to keep you out.

With the help of the NAACP, and the commitment of troops by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, you opened the doors to the school, and helped to change the history of this nation. You were the first black student to graduate from Central High.

You came to Michigan State University where, in addition to working toward your degree, you became head of the campus chapter of the NAACP. You earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Social Science and a Master of Science in Sociology and then moved into the business world.

To ensure that doors would not be closed to others as they had once been closed to you, you began working for the Organization of Recruitment and Training Program, which recruited young African-Americans for programs in America's building craft unions. In 1977, President Jimmy Carter appointed you Assistant Secretary of Labor, where you served until 1981.

You presided over Ernest Green & Associates, Inc., which specialized in training services for minority groups. Soon you were hired by Shearson Lehman Brothers, Inc., where you specialized in public finance, working with major cities nationwide.

You moved on to become managing director at Lehman Brothers, and have helped such major cities as Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, and Atlanta in planning for their futures.

Your contributions have been widely recognized. You have been a volunteer and member of the Board of Trustees of the March of Dimes. You serve on the board of directors of the NAACP, and of the Winthrop Rockefeller Foundation. You are on the board of Directors of the Eisenhower World Affairs Institute, and of the Quality Education for Minorities Network. And you serve your alma mater as a member of the MSU College of Social Science Board of Visitors.

You also returned to Little Rock Central High, where you delivered a commencement address, helping ensure that the doors would not be closed to others as they once were to you.

For your perseverance, and your commitment to excellence; for your strength, and for your willingness to take risks so that we all might benefit, Michigan State University is proud to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

HONORARY DEGREE

NAOMI LONG MADGETT

Naomi Long Madgett, as a poet and one of the nation's first publishers devoted to the poetry by African-Americans and other minorities, you occupy a unique position in the nation's literary world.

As editor and executive director of Lotus Press, Inc., in Detroit, Michigan, for more than two decades you have been an inspiration for those whose works were given voice through your publications.

Creating rhymes before you could write, your first poem was published at the age of 11. The first of your seven books of poetry, "Songs to a Phantom Nightingale," burst on the literary scene when you were 17. Since then, your reputation as one of the finest black poets in America has merited recognition in numerous anthologies and textbooks.

Born the daughter of a minister in Norfolk, Virginia, you received your early schooling in New Jersey and Missouri and went on to obtain degrees from Virginia State University and Wayne State University.

You distinguished yourself as a teacher of English with high schools in Detroit and at Eastern Michigan University, where you now hold the title of professor emeritus in the Department of English Language and Literature. Only two years after joining the Eastern Michigan faculty, you introduced the first undergraduate course in Afro-American literature.

Although best known for your poems on the black experience, your writings have encompassed almost all aspects of Americana: the city and the country, mothers and fathers, life and death, the seasons. You have been acclaimed for your poetry readings for the Michigan Council for the Arts and throughout the nation. Your poems have been recorded for the National Archives in the Library of Congress.

Many awards attest to the important role you have played in the literary arts. Your honors include a tribute from Afrikan Poets Theatre in New York and resolutions from the Michigan State Legislature and Detroit City Council. You received an American Book Award for your art and publishing efforts and were the recipient of the Michigan Artist Award, presented by the Governor of Michigan.

We were honored when you chose to continue the work you began with Lotus Press by becoming senior editor for the newly created Michigan State University Press "Lotus Poetry Series." The first publication in the series, released in November 1993, is "Remembrances of Spring," a collection of your early poems.

Naomi Long Madgett, you have written that making a poem "is trying to capture gold-winged butterflies with only a net of dreams."

Your "net of dreams" has captured many a butterfly. For your lifetime contributions as a vital force in shaping the direction of serious African-American poetry in the United States, Michigan State University hereby awards you the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts.

1994 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARD

JOHN ENGLER

Gov. John Engler received a B.S. in agricultural economics from Michigan State University in 1970 and a Juris Doctorate from Thomas M. Cooley Law School in 1982.

Elected Governor of Michigan in 1990, Engler has been praised by his peers as an outstanding lawmaker, a strong leader and a brilliant political strategist. He recently spearheaded the success of Proposal A, which revolutionizes the system of school support. Engler's plan to cut property taxes while guaranteeing school funding was hailed by the New York Times as "the nation's most dramatic shift in a century in the way public schools are financed."

A veteran of many successful campaigns, John Engler has never lost an election. He was elected to Michigan's House of Representatives while still a senior at MSU, and eight years later was elected to the State Senate. Four years later, his colleagues elected him Senate Republican Leader. Two years after that, in 1984, he became Senate Majority Leader, and in 1988 he helped the National Republican ticket win 54 percent of the statewide vote. He was named Co-Chair of the Presidential Personnel Advisory Committee and Chair of the Commission on Presidential Scholars. More recently, he served as Co-Chair of the National Governors' Association Welfare Reform Leadership Team.

During nearly a quarter century of public service, Engler has received numerous honors, including the Distinguished Service Award by the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan and the 1993 Thomas Jefferson Freedom Award by the American Legislative Exchange Council. He serves on the board of directors for Michigan Special Olympics, Toys for Tots and the Farm Bureau of Michigan.

R. DRAYTON MCLANE, JR.

R. Drayton McLane, Jr., received a B.A. degree from Baylor University in 1958 and an M.B.A. in food systems, economics and management from Michigan State University in 1959.

From the board room to the locker room, McLane has had a remarkably successful career. The new owner of the Houston Astros baseball team, he made his mark in business as president and CEO of McLane Company, Inc. Under his leadership, McLane Co., a family grocery operation, grew an average of 30 percent a year for 20 years. Today it is the world's largest distributor of food products and merchandise to convenience stores, serving more than 30,000 customers with annual sales of nearly $5 billion. After merging with former retail giant Sam Walton, he became vice chairman and director of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. His purchase of the Astros has generated great excitement among the fans and includes a lease on the county-owned Astrodome through the year 2027.

Drayton McLane is chairman of the National Board of Governors of the Children's Miracle Network, a director of Scott & White Memorial Hospital, and a trustee of Baylor University. His many honors include the 1986 Award for Management Excellence and Achievement from the University of Georgia; the 1987 Arthur Young/VENTURE Magazine Entrepreneur of the Year Award; the 1990 Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith Food Distributor Man of the Year; and the 1992 Texas Business Hall of Fame Foundation Honoree.

WALTER CHURCHILL WILLETT

Walter Churchill Willett received a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in 1966, an M.D. from the University of Michigan in 1970, and an M.P.H. and Ph.D. in epidemiology from Harvard's School of Public Health in 1971 and 1980.

The chairman of the Department of Nutrition at Harvard's School of Public Health and professor of medicine at the Harvard Medical School, Willett is considered by many to be the world's foremost expert in nutritional epidemiology. He has authored the authoritative book on Nutritional Epidemiology and currently heads the largest study ever undertaken on the impact of food on health. The study was launched 14 years ago and involves 121,700 female nurses. Says one leading researcher, "I never hear nutritional epidemiology being mentioned without reference being made to Walter Willett."

During his medical career he has held appointments at Boston City Hospital and Brigham and Women's Hospital. His academic appointments include stints at Harvard Medical School, the Harvard School of Public Health, and the University of Dar es Salaam, Tanzania.

His many awards and honors include the National Institutes of Health Research Career Development Award in 1981 and the Prevention Prize National Award for Achievements in Preventive Medicine and Health in 1992. He has authored or co-authored more than 200 articles in a variety of medical publications.

KATE PEW WOLTERS

Kate Pew Wolters received her Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from Aquinas College in 1978 and her Master of Social Work from Michigan State University in 1982.

Since 1986 Wolters has been executive director of Steelcase Foundation in Grand Rapids, MI. Previously she served as director for the Hope Rehabilitation Network, Grand Rapids, as a clinical social worker at Steelcase, Inc.; as a practicum therapist for Catholic Social Services, Grand Rapids; as a practicum medical social worker for Mary Free Bed Hospital and Rehabilitation Center, Grand Rapids; and as a pre-sentence investigator for the 61st Judicial Court Probation Division Department, Grand Rapids.

In 1984 she was appointed by the Governor of Michigan to the State Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities, and was named the Council's chair in 1990. She also has served as a trustee of the Grand Rapids Art Museum, as a board member of the AIDS Foundation of Kent County, as a board member of the Irving S. Gilmore International Keyboard Festival and of the Michigan Council for Independent Living.

In 1992, she was named to the Dean's Board of Visitors in MSU's College of Social Science. Among many awards, she received the 1991 Distinguished Alumni Award from MSU's College of Social Science.

PAULINE AND WALTER ADAMS AWARD

The Pauline and Walter Adams Award recognizes outstanding contributions to the Michigan State University community by faculty, staff, students, alumni and others external to the University.

WALDO F. KELLER

With his more than 40 years of dedicated service to Michigan State University, Dr. Waldo F. Keller is a more than deserving recipient of the Pauline and Walter Adams Award, recognizing outstanding contributions to MSU.

Dr. Keller joined the MSU faculty in 1953 as an instructor in the College of Veterinary Medicine and quickly moved up the ranks of his chosen profession. Today, he is a professor of small animal clinical sciences and acting dean of the college (his second stint as acting dean). But whether it's been department chairperson, associate dean for academic affairs, or acting dean, Dr. Keller has served his college and his university with honor, distinction and a healthy dose of good humor.

A nationally recognized veterinary ophthalmologist, Dr. Keller was one of the founding fathers of the American College of Veterinary Ophthalmologists.

In his first term as acting dean of the college (1983-84), Dr. Keller directed the campaign for capital outlay funding that resulted in $46.8 million, funds that were used for the new Veterinary Medical Center, renovations of the existing clinic and new equipment.

Despite all his administrative duties, Dr. Keller always finds the time to lend a hand. He remains a valuable resource for veterinarians throughout the country, as well as a trusted mentor for students coping with the rigors of veterinary college.

But Dr. Keller's Spartan spirit goes far beyond the classrooms, labs and meeting rooms of the university. Among the most faithful of Spartan supporters, Dr. Keller attends most athletic functions, either as an enthusiastic spectator or playing a spirited trumpet with the Geriatric Six Plus One, a Dixieland band composed of MSU faculty members. Whether it's in an icy Michigan snow storm or in the sun of the Rose Bowl, Dr. Keller and his band have been there, playing the fight song and helping other Spartan faithful cheer the team to victory.

Dr. Keller founded the Consortium of North American Veterinary Interactive New Concept Education or CONVINCE. A consortium of North American veterinary colleges, CONVINCE is designed to promote the use of technology, particularly interactive computer technology, in veterinary education. Dr. Keller serves as president of the consortium.

Long an advocate of collaborative efforts, Dr. Keller instituted the MSU Medical Consortium in 1987. This coming together of the colleges of veterinary medicine, human medicine, osteopathic medicine and nursing promotes the development of interactive video disc education.

Dr. Keller's contributions to veterinary medicine have not gone unnoticed by his peers. In 1967 he earned the Norden Outstanding Teacher Award from MSU; in 1980 he was honored as a Distinguished Alumnus of The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine; and in 1990 he was chosen an Honorary Alumnus of the MSU College of Veterinary Medicine.

Dr. Keller's commitment to his college and his university are second to none. Indeed, he put long-time retirement plans on hold for a year to take on the role of acting dean. For his dedication to MSU, his calm and steady leadership capabilities, and his contributions to veterinary medicine, it is an honor to recognize Dr. Waldo Keller with the Pauline and Walter Adams Award.

When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.

ALMA MATER Traynor

M.S.U., We love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.
(The MSU Wind Symphony and Audience)

RECESSIONAL

The MSU Wind Symphony

We would like to express our appreciation to the many students and staff for their assistance at the commencement exercises. The audience is requested to remain seated while those in the processional are entering and leaving the arena.
