FIELD DAY WAS OURS!

We Score More Points Than Any Other Three Colleges, and Break Two Records. Captain Russell Wins the All-around Medal.

The records of another field day have been made, a thousand students have had two days of unbridled sport and settled down again to work, and we, at least, review the event with complacency. We have good reason to do this, for under the able management of our trainer, Max Beutner, the M. A. C. boys gained supremacy at nearly every turn. Unstinted praise is also due Mr. Beutner for his untiring efforts, and success too, in bringing up and keeping up the class work of his teams. We must likewise give credit to Mr. J. H. Wood for valuable assistance to the wrestlers, to which the success of the indoor meet was largely due. Thus thoroughly prepared, our boys laid aside books at noon Thursday and gave themselves up to the enjoyment of the most successful field day ever held at M. A. C.

THURSDAY.

The tennis players arrived Thursday morning and spent the day playing off the preliminaries on the Howard Terrace court. In men's singles, Boone, Ypsilanti, won from Beach, Olivet, and Maywood, Albion, from Chase, Hillsdale. In men's doubles, Reed and Clark, M. A. C., took two sets from Fuller and Davis, Olivet; Maywood and Smith, Albion, defeated McHarness and Henry, Kalamazoo, and French and Chase, Hillsdale, won from Boone and Whitcomb, Ypsilanti.

In the evening the armory was thrown open and an informal reception and hop extended to the visitors, of whom a few were present from Hillsdale, Olivet, Albion, and Kalamazoo. Before the evening was far advanced, however, a large delegation of young women from the Normal arrived, and the crowd thus augmented enjoyed dancing until 10 o'clock.

FRIDAY FORENOON.

Friday was an all-around glorious day—weather perfect, three records broken, M. A. C. taking nearly everything in sight. In the morning a train load of students came up from Albion, and Kalamazoo sent a large delegation, so that by 9:30 o'clock the grand-stand at the fair grounds was well filled.

In the first event, the 100-yard dash, there was felt a considerable amount of anxiety because of Russell's recent illness. But he came down the stretch well in front of the bunch and won the dash in 10 3-5 seconds. Tench, Albion, was second and Christopher, M. A. C., third.

Considerable delay was caused in running of the all-around 100-yard dash, by the failure of "the machine" to record the time of the sprinters. It was necessary to run the race a second time in order to get the records.

In the one-fourth mile bicycle race Brown and Pursel took first and second, respectively, for M. A.

C., and Moore, Albion, took third. Time, 35 4-5 seconds. This record is 1 1-5 seconds better than the former M. I. A. A. record.

M. A. C. did not get a point in the mile run, but Tower finished fourth, with only about four yards between him and the first man, and will be a valuable man next year. First was won by Koster, Kalamazoo; second by Schoch, Kalamazoo, and third by Jones, Olivet.

Wedemeyer, M. A. C., was the second record breaker, making 44 feet 11 1/2 inches in the running hop, step and jump, which is 7 1/2 inches better than Tompkins' '98 record.

The mile bicycle race was very slow and Brown and Pursel were easy winners of first and second, with Moore, Albion, away behind for third. Time, 3 min. 15 sec.

First in the 440-yard dash was won by Gorton, Ypsilanti, in 54 2-5 seconds. Dunster, Albion, was second, and Curtis, M. A. C., third.

The baseball game between Olivet and Ypsilanti was not called until after eleven o'clock, and was a tedious and ragged game that lasted nearly three hours. Ypsilanti took the lead in the first inning and held it until the end, when the score stood 14 to 6.

During the forenoon tennis games were in progress at the College. In men's singles Henry, Kalamazoo won from Clark, M. A. C., and Maywood, Albion, from Boone, Ypsilanti. In ladies' singles Miss Perine, Albion, defeated Miss Crosby, M. A. C.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

An interesting base ball game and seven good field and track events furnished excellent sport for the afternoon, and M. A. C. took three firsts, three seconds and five thirds—nearly half of everything. Following is a summary of events.

Standing broad jump—Wedemeyer, M. A. C., first; Morse, Ypsilanti, second; Carpenter, M. A. C., third. Distance, 10 feet.

Running high jump—Hayne, Kalamazoo, first; Wedemeyer, M. A. C. second; Christopher, M. A. C., third. Height, 5 feet 7 inches. This beats Hayne's '97 record by one inch. Wedemeyer equaled the former record of 5 feet 6 inches.

One-mile walk—Boys, Albion, first; Thayer, M. A. C., second; Parks, M. A. C., third. Time, 8 minutes 20 3-5 seconds.

Shot-put—Moody, Hillsdale, first; Gage, Olivet, second; Maywood, Albion, third. Distance, 31 feet 5 1/2 inches. It was found after the event that the shot was two ounces heavy. As some of the all round men failed to qualify in this event by a small margin the judges decided to have it tried over on Thursday morning, but here the directors interfered and voted to let the records stand as first established.

Half-mile run—Schoch, Kalamazoo first; Hill, Albion, second; Edgar, M. A. C., third. Time, 2 minutes, 10 4-5 seconds.

Pole vault—Christopher, M. A. C., first; French, Hillsdale, second; Wedemeyer, M. A. C., third. Height, 9 feet 9 inches. French and Wedemeyer were tied at 9 feet, 6 inches and French won the toss.

220-yard dash—Russell, M. A.

C., first; Christopher, M. A. C. second; DePew, Hillsdale, third. Time, 23 1-5 seconds, which equals the M. I. A. A. record made by Russell last year.

The baseball game between Albion and Kalamazoo was won by the latter; score 6 to 3. It was a well played game, full of brilliant plays, and especially remarkable for the record of 19 strike-outs for Calhoun, the Kalamazoo pitcher.

In tennis at the College, Albion won men's doubles from M. A. C. and Hillsdale won ladies' doubles from M. A. C.

FRIDAY EVENING—INDOOR MEET.

By 8:30 o'clock the new armory in Lansing was crowded with boisterous, rollicking, good-natured students who had assembled to see Albion take all the firsts in wrestling; that is, if the predictions of Albion students were to be considered trustworthy. This meet furnished some of the greatest surprises and rarest sport of field day. In the light of our experience last year, we really did not expect much, and so felt quite highly elated when upon summing up our victories we found three firsts, two seconds and two thirds—a total of 23 points out of a possible 60.

Middle weight wrestling was won by Exelby, Albion, who threw Taylor, Olivet, after the latter had thrown Taylor, M. A. C.

Laubach, M. A. C., had to throw three men to secure first in light weight, and he did the trick "to the queen's taste," taking the last fall from Cottrell, Albion, in 36 seconds.

Exelby, Albion, won first in welter weight by throwing Townsend M. A. C., in 6 1/2 seconds and Niles, Olivet, in 18 1/2 seconds. Townsend then took a fall from Niles for second place.

The hard-fought contest of the evening was in heavy weight. Moody, Hillsdale, won from Bowler, Olivet; Finch, M. A. C., threw Flint, Ypsilanti, and Moody; and Woodhams, Kalamazoo, after three hard bouts aggregating 13 minutes, won from Exelby, Albion. This brought Woodhams and Finch together in the finals. A six-minute bout was without result, and a second bout was nearly over, when amid the wildest enthusiasm Finch landed his man squarely on his shoulders.

In feather weight wrestling, Hillman, M. A. C., clearly outclassed all other contestants, and his bout with Hoxie, Ypsilanti, was the most amusing event of field day. Hoxie, lean as the proverbial bean pole, took a flying leap in the air and when he came down on little Max there was a mix-up of arms, legs and claws that resembled a bout between the famous "Kilkenny cats," but the under cat bided his time and when the fur cleared away Hoxie was on his back. Hillman afterward won the event by taking a fall from Steele, Kalamazoo.

Individual club swinging was won by Hawkins, Olivet; second, Fuller, M. A. C.; third, Fall, Albion.

Class club swinging was won by the Ypsilanti team of young women. After they had given a fine exhibition the Kalamazoo team forfeited.

This is a cup contest and does not count in the score of points.

On the horizontal bar, Kimball and Whitcomb of Ypsilanti, won first and second respectively, and Richmond, M. A. C., third.

SATURDAY MORNING.

The morning of the last day dawned frowningly and early showers cast a gloom over the students, but before ten o'clock jolly Phœbus was smiling through the clouds while crowds of students in the grand stand sang and yelled themselves hoarse. The day before the Hillsdale girls had captured the crowd with a song-yell, and this morning M. A. C. "sprung" a new song and several excellent new yells composed by Cass Laitner. In the track events of the morning M. A. C. took more than half, as will be seen by the following summary:

120-yard hurdles—Won by Morse, Ypsilanti; Christopher, M. A. C., second; Olsen, M. A. C., third. Time, 18 3-5 seconds.

Five-mile bicycle—Won by Brown, M. A. C.; Pursel, M. A. C., second; Clark, Albion, third. Time, 14 minutes 7 2-5 seconds.

Running broad jump—Won by Wedemeyer, M. A. C.; Hayne, Kalamazoo, second; Russell, M. A. C., third. Distance, 19 feet, 10 inches.

220-yard hurdle—Won by Olsen, M. A. C.; Christopher, M. A. C., second; Grosenbaugh, Albion, third. Time, 28 seconds.

Hammer throw—Won by Boys, Albion; Lister, Ypsilanti, second; Severance, M. A. C., third. Distance, 86 feet, 3 inches.

One-mile tandem—Won by Brown and Pursel, M. A. C.; Miller and Thieleman, M. A. C., second. Time, 2 minutes, 26 seconds.

Our joy in victory was somewhat tempered by our loss this morning of any chance for the baseball cup. We lost to Ypsilanti in the best played game of the season. It was a pitcher's battle and from the score book's story it would seem that we should have won, for we got 7 hits to 4 for our opponents and only one error to their two. But that one error of ours came in the same inning with a single and two sacrifice hits, and no such lucky combination fell to our lot. Both pitchers were steady as clock-work and both received excellent support. For six innings only four Ypsi. men reached first and only one of these saw second. Then came the hit, error and two sacrifices that scored a run. Not until the last half of the ninth did M. A. C. get a man past third; then Krentel hit safely and stole second, Beebe and Murphy struck out, and Norton drove out a clean hit that scored Krentel. In the tenth, after two men were out, two clean singles scored 1 for Ypsilanti. For M. A. C., Armstrong got a base on balls and was called out on a steal to second, although he clearly had the base; Wolf was out at first; Case drove out a single and stole second; Decker bunted and beat out the throw, and Krentel, one of the surer men on the team in an emergency, came to bat. Excitement was intense when he drove the ball down to third and sprinted for first;

A Day at Henley Regatta.

T. H. SPINDLO '02, UNION LITERARY SOCIETY.

Henley Regatta, with its almost classic races, its beautiful surroundings and unrivalled display of colors, has been written about so often that an attempt at a description here would be out of place, but perhaps a portrayal of the events of a day spent there, as they occurred to an ordinary party of pleasure seekers, will be of some interest.

We were a merry party that started off that bright summer morning for the regatta. There were few clouds in the sky and fewer still on our mind. Everyone who had agreed to go was there, the ladies had managed to be ready almost on time, the commissariat had been well looked after, and, except for a few misgivings on the part of some of the feminine members of the expedition as to the exact condition of the back hair, all were in a state of peace and joyous expectation. The first part of our journey was by road to the nearest point of the Thames, at Wargrave, where we had hired a boat at the "George and Dragon," a somewhat noted riverside hotel boasting a sign painted by two Royal Academicians, Leslie and Hodgson. The story goes that while staying there they were one day kept indoors by very wet weather and to pass the time they agreed to paint a sign. This they did, Leslie depicting on one side, the valiant knight fighting the dragon, and Hodgson portraying the scene after the battle, where St. George is so far forgetting the dignity of his saintly knighthood as to be refreshing himself with a mug of beer.

Wargrave is a very pretty village, and in spite of its name has had nothing to do with war or the burying of war. At the time the Domesday Book was compiled there was a weir in the river here and a fine grove of trees leading down to it, hence the name Weirgrove, which through many changes of Weirgrove, Waergroevē, Wergraeve and the like, at length settled down to its present form. Thus has a martial and gruesome name been derived from a peaceful, pastoral subject. But Wargrave is so full of places of interest and quaint legends that we must hurry away or Henley will never be reached.

The only boat we could get large enough to hold us all was a large, roomy one called Jumbo. It was rightly named for I never saw a boat more closely resembling an elephant in size and unworldliness, but when the eleven of us had taken our seats and there was still room for the refreshment basket we were thankful. Two of the men of the party took an oar each, and another took a pair of sculls, while at the other end of the boat one of the girls took the lines to steer. However, after nearly colliding with other boats, getting in the way of a steam launch, and then going straight for the bank, we concluded that her mind was not suited to paying attention to such a mundane occupation as steering a large boat on a crowded river, so we quietly relieved her of the responsibility. There is only one lock between Wargrave and Henley and there lay our chief difficulty, for the crowd of boats was so great that oars could not be used and only by hanging on to steam launches and other boats could we get along; then just as we got settled into position the side stream caught the stern of our boat and in a few moments we had swung around broadside on to the rest of the river craft. It was an exciting time, and the remarks of the lock-keeper and some of the occupants of the other boats would make interesting reading if space sufficed to record them. But after many attempts and the expenditure of one hour and thirty minutes of time, we got through.

On the Henley side of the lock the crowd was even greater, but as all were moving in the one direction progress was comparatively easy. Here the house-boats formed an almost unbroken line along the edge of the stream, and they looked very pretty with their tasteful display of colors and beautiful decorations of flowers standing out brilliantly against a background of dark green woods.

In a short time Henley was reached and passing under the old bridge we were soon upon the race course, where the dull roar of voices from river and bank was almost as bewildering to the ears as the lavish display of color was to the eye; for men as well as women bring out their brightest; and hats, blazers, shirts, sunshades, dresses, and flowers combine to make a very gay scene.

The mass of river craft was so great that oars had to be shipped, and we rested while the stream or the crowding of boats drifted us first one way then another until we found ourselves pushed up close to the bank. Then we decided to examine the contents of the refreshment basket. I may say that we had been exploring there, in a cursory manner, nearly all the time, but now we settled down in real earnest and got at the contents of that basket right down to the bottom-most pie. It was a novel and enjoyable dinner, sitting there so near to, yet quite undisturbed by, the crowd upon the river and the crowd upon the shore. From the house-boats came the sounds of music of small orchestras; bands of musicians were passing up and down from point to point, rendering in most cases really good music; on the shore itinerant vendors of ice cream, iced drinks, strawberries, cherries, souvenirs, etc. were shouting their prices and the excellence of their goods; at every available spot conjurers of various kinds, weight-lifters, arrow-throwers, thought-readers, and strong men were attracting or keeping a crowd around themselves, each one sure of a good reward for his outlay of energy and skill, for extravagance is the order of the day and anyone proffering a good article is sure of a good price. Some of these little bands of performers make as high as $100 a day for each of the three days of the regatta. In everything prices rule high, house rent, especially, being exorbitant; $500 for the use of a house for three weeks including the regatta week is quite a common sum, and as high as $1000 to $1200 has often been paid.

While we were finishing our dinner the bell sounded for the course to be cleared, and a scramble immediately ensued, for, with the river crowded to excess, it is an extremely difficult matter to pack the boats along on either side far enough out of the way, but the Thames Conservancy men came along in boats and with much tact and skill soon had the course clear. Then we waited until two long boats, each containing a row of broad, swaying backs, shot past, closely followed by the umpire's steam launch, and in a moment the river was full of gay movement again. These races occurred at intervals of thirty minutes, but to us they were of minor importance.

Later in the day about half of our party went ashore, leaving the boat in charge of the rest of us. A place and time was arranged for meeting again, but at the appointed time and place the land party could not be found so one fellow went to look for them. After a time he found two of them who had lost the rest, and together they continued the search; but in the meantime the others had found the boat, and learning the state of affairs, one of their number started to find the missing ones; then just as he had disappeared, those he sought turned up.

"Did you see Harry?" shouted one from the boat.

"No."

"Well he has only just gone to look for you. One of you go up the river and one down. He can't be far away."

So off went two in search of Harry, and this sort of thing went on for about an hour, and we began to wonder if we should ever meet together again. But some strange turn of Fortune's wheel did the trick for us, and we were so relieved that we decided to stay to see the fireworks. These began at half-past nine, and the first thing done was to send up a mass of luminous pink vapor amongst a row of elm trees, which made their branches and leaves look like a recent importation from fairyland. The effect was wonderfully pretty and it formed a good background for the set pieces. The display lasted over an hour and was really splendid, but it was almost equalled by the scene upon the water, where hundreds of boats were moving about in the semi-darkness, decorated with multi-colored lanterns; the arches and piers of the bridge a mass of colored lights, and each house-boat vieing with its neighbors for supremacy in brilliancy of color or beauty of design. All this in itself and its moving, waving reflection upon the water made a scene well worth staying for.

By eleven o'clock practically all was over and we started for home, which we reached in the "wee sma' hours," tired but perfectly contented with the good time we had enjoyed.

In His Steps.

W. S. LEONARD.

I desire to call attention, through your columns, to the little book by Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, which has just been presented to the library. "In His Steps" or "What Would Jesus Do?" has no doubt been read by some of the College people, but in view of the great demand for the book in other localities, I was surprised to be informed by Mrs. Landon that there had been no call for it at the library.

Rev. E. B. Allen, who is preaching a series of sermons on the question emphasized in the book, had this to say in his introductory. "No book since the time of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' has struck such a vein of popular favor." "Up to this time there have been 3,000,000 copies of 'In His Steps' sold in Great Britain. In six months the circulation of the book far surpassed the total circulation of Mrs. Henry Wood's novels in forty years. 'East Lynne,' which has had a larger circulation than any other English copyright novel, has only reached 480,000 copies. 'Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush' reached 90,000. These are paltry figures beside the millions of Sheldon's book." "I find varied statements of the number sold in America. None are lower than 500,000."

That this little book should gain for itself such a footing in competition with the endless number and variety of other books before the public, might indicate that there was something very new and startling in its pages. But such is not the case. Unless a practical application of the teachings of Christ is new there is absolutely nothing novel in the book. And this is the charge the book brings against us; namely, that the generality of Christians are not in any adequate sense practicing the religion of Christ. We need to reconsider our definition of Christian discipleship. Nothing short of a revival of the martyr spirit of apostolic days is sufficient to cope with the problems which confront the Christian world today. Christ has not a different standard now from that delivered to the early churches. "The call of the cross" is still a call to a life of self-sacrifice. The soldier is willing to sacrifice all earthly ties and pecuniary advantages for his country and for fame. The Christian must be willing to sacrifice all things, if need be, for Christ and humanity.

If one should attempt to formulate the teaching of Rev. Sheldon's book in a few propositions they would read something like the following: The person who has inherited, or otherwise come into the possession of wealth, is justified only by using this wealth for the good of his fellows. The inventor, who has been permitted by the Almighty to discover some new application of natural law, has no moral right to use this for his own private ends exclusively, but is merely God's steward. The individual who has had the advantage of a liberal education, is bound by the law of Christ to use this advantage, not for himself alone, but for society in general. In short, every talent, every privilege, every advantage is to be used in connection with the text, "What would Jesus do?"

Does this seem hard? Does it look like slavery? Read "In His Steps;" follow Rachel Winslow as she refuses a large salary, and distinguished career, and uses her beautiful voice in singing gospel songs in the slums. Follow Calvin Bruce as he leaves an aristocratic and cultured congregation, and goes to live and labor among the great unwashed throng, that he may lift them to a purer, sweeter, holier life. Study the other characters in this book, who in order to live up to their standard had to change their business methods, discard dishonest and exaggerated advertising, and abandon many other practices which are considered shrewd and essential to success. It will be found that these characters are not unhappy. Certain it is that their happiness is not of the kind they enjoyed before they begun this new life; but they possess a truer, higher joy—the joy of service.

It is a profound truth that one cannot in the fullest sense believe in Christ while persistently disobedient. Disobedience is destructive of faith. The characters in "In His Steps" enjoy that interior evidence, the witness of the Holy Spirit, which is given to those who dare to surrender all things which hinder their progress in the spiritual life.

It is a very encouraging sign of the times that so many writers are concentrating their pens to the promotion of human brotherhood. Unlike most of these writers Rev. Sheldon approaches the subject, not from the standpoint of economics, but from that of christian principle. He thus steers clear of the prejudice against Socialism and kindred theories, and reaches a class of readers which could be interested in no other way.

"In His Steps" is sold at the book stores generally for 25 cents, paper covers, and 75c and upwards in cloth. Teachers and students, whatever you fail to do, do not fail to read this book. And after you have read it endeavor to take as your ideal the motto proposed by the author. If all christians would thus live, verily the earth would blossom as the garden of the Lord.

Illness of Miss Nellie Mayo.

The friends of Dr. N. S. Mayo '88 will be pained to learn that his sister, Nellie Mayo, is very ill in the Nichols Hospital in Battle Creek, Mich.

Miss Mayo suffered an injury to her knee from accidentally slipping down during an ice storm a year ago last February.

Despite all that the best medical skill could do it has grown worse until it has assumed a very grave form of synovitis.

She has been confined to her bed for twenty weeks and is so ill as to be able to see only her family and a few intimate friends. Miss Mayo made friends wherever she went, and many students of M. A. C. will remember her.

To ———.

I love thee for thy sparkling ways;
With thee I'd ever tarry.
I love thy sweet, enchanting lays,
So musical and merry.
I love the very atmosphere
Of purity about thee,
'Twould be extremely hard, I fear,
To get along without thee;
And yet thou hast a fearful way
That fills my soul with wrath,
Of changing unexpectedly,
O fickle shower bath!

An Eloquent Memorial Address.

Memorial Day was observed at the College by brief morning exercises. At 7:45 the cadet battalion in uniform marched into the Armory, after which President Snyder conducted devotional exercises and the M. A. C. chorus rendered Kipling's "Recessional Hymn."

The address for the day was given by Capt. A. M. Allen, of Portland, who paid a most eloquent tribute to the "old veterans" of '61-'65 and to the "young veterans" of '98-'99. Both fought, he said, for down-trodden humanity and both triumphed; but the greatest victory achieved by the "old veterans" was when they returned to the plow and the shop, when they forgot all battles and were absorbed in the peaceful life of home. It took them four years to conquer the arms of the South; thirty years of peace have conquered their hearts. It was a sight worth seeing, in our last war, to see the sons of the blue and the gray touch elbows and vie with each other to see who should carry his lance farthest in defense of his country. He in behalf of the G. A. R. extended a hearty welcome to the young men who fought for a stranger on foreign fields.

Captain Allen is a very pleasing speaker and held the undivided attention of his audience for nearly an hour. The exercises were closed by singing the National hymn.

At the College.

Mesdames Smith, Vedder and Taft gave a delightful reception at the home of Mrs. Smith Thursday afternoon.

At the meeting of the Botanical Club, May 29, the following officers were elected: President, G. M. Bradford; vice-president, H. C. Skeels; secretary, W. S. Palmer; janitor, H. C. Skeels.

The Columbian Society gave a reception Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Elliott who are to leave Wednesday for their home in Ohio. Later, Mr. Elliott will go to Washington where he has a professorship in the State Agricultural College.

News from Graduates.

W. J. Meyers '90 has been elected director of the U. of M. Good Government Club.

Verne J. Heesen with '93m wheeled over from Tecumseh to attend field day.

The Montpelier, Ohio, Banking and State Savings Company has been reorganized and J. H. Hill '84 elected cashier.

Jay Tyndall with '91, owner and manager of a large farm near Owosso, spent Monday of last week at the College studying siloes.

Orel S. Groner '94 has been re-elected principle of the Manistique high school. This will be his fourth year and the election carries with it an increase in salary.

The old boys will get back to field day for a good time. Among those seen this year were: G. F. Richmond, W. A. Anson, A. C. McKinnon, H. W. Hart, G. B. Wells, C. B. Laitner, W. C. Stewart, H. C. Walker, W. H. Williams, La Vern Heesen, F. B. Phillips and R. W. Clark.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Only three events remained for the afternoon, but so great was the interest in the final baseball game and the relay race that the grandstand was crowded and hundreds were lined up on the other side of the track before the first event was called.

The high kick was won by Hoxie, Ypsilanti, with Thorne, Ypsilanti, second and Depew, Hillsdale, third. Height, 8 feet, 6 inches.

Then came the relay race. Five teams started and three of these were conspicuous at the finish. Kalamazoo had held the cup one year and hoped to win it again, but Albion thought otherwise. Russell and Christopher took a good lead for M. A. C. in the first two quarters but through an unfortunate misunderstanding, Edgar did not get away on the third quarter until all the others were ahead of him. He could not regain his loss, and although Curtis ran a fine quarter he could not overcome the handicap. The race between Albion and Kalamazoo was in doubt till the finish but Albion won by a few yards, and the finish was a signal for the wildest demonstrations by the wearers of the pink and green.

The baseball diamond was completely surrounded by people, when, at four o'clock, Kalamazoo and Ypsilanti began the last struggle of the year for the cup. The result was not long in doubt. The Normal boys had played a hard game just before noon and were in no condition to cope with the wily Tigers of the celery jungles. The game was uninteresting because so one-sided, and everybody was glad when it ended. The score was 14 to 4. Kalamazoo has won every intercollegiate game played this year and is clearly entitled to the cup.

Before the end of this last event many of the visiting students had gone home, but those who remained joined M. A. C. in a grand evening celebration in the streets of Lansing. Buggies containing the victors in the various events were hauled through the streets by hoarse, howling students who forgot all the little differences that had arisen, and remembered only the victories won by their respective colleges.

TENNIS FINALS.

The finals in tennis were played at the College Saturday. In men's singles, Maywood, Albion, won from Henry, Kalamazoo, and in doubles Chase and French, Hillsdale, won from Maywood and Smith, Albion. The best tennis of the tournament was in ladies' singles, between Miss Smith, Hillsdale and Miss Perine, Albion. It took five sets to decide the championship, and the last set was a deuce set, mostly of deuce games—10:8. In the afternoon, Misses Smith and Marsh of Hillsdale defeated Misses Perine and Hunt, Albion, in ladies' doubles. Thus Hillsdale gets three firsts and Albion one first in tennis finals.

ALL AROUND CHAMPIONSHIP.

Too much credit cannot be given Captain Russell for the nery fight he put up for the all-around championship. For two weeks in the most valuable training period of the season he could do absolutely nothing on the track, and most of that time he could not get out of his room. Then four days before field day, he was able to begin training again. Four days of training before going against eight of the best men the other colleges could find! Think of it! And then, to win against such odds with a good clear margin of 38 points. Is it any wonder we are proud of his performance? We think he well deserves the honor bestowed upon him by the track team in electing him their captain for the remainder of this term and next year, in place of Mr. Lundy, resigned. The percentages for first and second all-around championship follow:

	RUSSELL M. A. C.	MORSE YPSILANTI
100-yard dash	.70	60
440-yard run	.60	40
120-yard hurdle	.60	52
Putting Shot	.20	17
Running high jump	.45	25
Running broad jump	.75	68
Pole vault	.50	70
Totals	380	332
