EXCAVATION BOOSTS UNION FUND

Returns on Pledges Due in December Come Faster Than in Several Years—
Many Comments on Work Done by Students—Receipts of Money to Control Progress of Work.

Comments on the Union Memorial building project and the start which has been given the building are plentiful among the letters received at the alumni office. Since Excavation Week the sums of money which have been paid in on pledges greatly exceed the amounts paid during any previous period. It has been made clear to the supporter of the plan that work is under way and there are several cases of pledges being increased because of the certainty that the money is being used and is needed for the construction work. As long as the present rate continues for a month or more there is assurance that the total of $100,000 in cash will be available for the start on the superstructure of the building when the committee decides to go ahead on that work. The absolute need for these payments cannot be stressed too much. A lack of money will do more to prevent the completion of the building according to schedule than will any other consideration. Complete payment of all accounts due at this time will insure the success of the plan.

Selected at random from the files messages from a large number of Union building supporters show the attitude of a great section of the alumni toward the building program. The students have demonstrated their attitude through pledges made last year and Excavation Week this fall, most of the alumni have had an opportunity to support the project through subscription. All that remains is to complete the canvass of former students and receive the payments on pledges.

Some of the comments on the building and Excavation Week follow:

I was very much pleased to see the account of "Excavation Week" in two or three of the Chicago papers. Mighty good idea, and I am sorry that I am not going to be there to do my bit with the shovel.

With all the success in the world for "Excavation Week" and for the building.

C. W. Gustafson, '22.

When your letter came, I was indulging in my flu-ey cold, and didn't care whether or not M. A. C. had a Memorial Building. I have always intended to contribute to the fund, but the opportune moment didn't seem to appear. Hope to send more later, but anyway I am enclosing a money order.

Ethel Caldwell, '11.

Was in hopes to be able to get down for a few hours some time this week and see the "diggings," but find that it is going to be impossible for me to do so. Notice from press reports that the work is progressing nicely.

E. W. Ranney, '00.

You might put me down for another $50.00 toward the Memorial Building. Heaven knows right now when I'll pay it, but it will be taken care of all right, like the other was.

Mary Allen, '09.

Enclosed find draft for Memorial Building fund. Several years ago I made a pledge which has been paid. Trusting my mite will help a little, I am, Fannie E. Beal, '08.

Please accept my check for the Memorial Building fund.

L. G. Barber, '91

We are enclosing check for payment due on subscription to the Memorial Building fund. We are anxious to have the "dream" come true.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carter, Jr., '14.

I am enclosing draft for the amount due on my pledge to the Union Memorial Building fund. I hope soon to be able to contribute more, for M. A. C. needs this building.

Anna B. Cowles, '15.

Enclosed find check for Union Building fund. Also register my best wishes for the success of the project. I feel that it will mean much for the future of M. A. C.

O. E. Dunckel, '21.

I am also enclosing my check for my Memorial Building fund pledge. Also I want to pledge an additional amount, payable February 1924. You have been doing some good advertising for the Memorial Building, and the campaign seems to be coming in fine shape.

May E. Foley, '18.

I'm enclosing a money order to go toward the Union Memorial fund. Also add another pledge to be paid 1924.

Lillian Ruth Grimm, '21.

I am enclosing check for the amount due on my subscription to the Memorial Building fund. It is a great regret that I was unable to be on the campus excavation week to absorb some of the enthusiasm which was then to be drawn on. It must have been a complete success from all reports.

Helen Ashley Hill, '07.

Kindly apply the enclosed on my subscription to the Memorial Building fund. I trust the fund is swelling.

Grace H. Hitchcock, '15.

You may count on receiving a check from Mrs. Hebblewhite (Mildred Matthews, '08) and myself, not later than December 31, 1923, for the Memorial Building fund.

G. W. Hebblewhite, '06.

Although somewhat tardy, I sincerely hope the enclosed check can be used to advantage.

Karl J. Hendershott, '20.

I am enclosing check in payment of my over-due pledge. I am sorry to have kept you waiting for the above. Certainly glad to see things are started on the new Union.

R. J. Liddicoat, Jr., '21.

I'm enclosing herewith my subscription to the Union Memorial Building fund. I am sending this with the hope that your Memorial Building fund campaign will be a success, and that you will raise the amount of money you need for the erection of the new building.

R. B. McPherson, '90.

Enclosed find check for my first contribution toward the building fund. I am sorry that conditions at present do not permit me to contribute a larger sum, but I am hopeful that before the building is completed I shall be able to do the full share of my duty toward our Alma Mater.

Jacob M. Haze, '16.

I see excavation has started on the Memorial Building, so here is your check.

Floyd H. Smith, '98.

I am enclosing check in payment of my subscription. I only wish that I could make it more.

Wayne Palm, '21.

I am enclosing check to apply on my subscription. I do hope the building comes along rapidly.

Mrs. W. E. Perry, '10.

At last I am sending my subscription to the Memorial Building fund. I hope that everything is progressing well in regard to it.

Zora L. Treen, '14.

Enclosed find a check as my pledge toward the Union Memorial Building fund. I wish you all possible success in your efforts.

Louella Wilder, '16.

Will you please send me a copy of my pledge to the new Union Building? I want to do my part toward this building in order that it may be completed as soon as possible.

Donald G. Robinson, '22.

Excavation Week put M. A. C. on the front page of the Fargo (N. D.) Forum; the football team was seldom mentioned on the sporting page. Moral: Everybody has to dig in to get recognition.

J. R. Dice, '08.

THE POWERHOUSE STACKS

The small one on the left has been torn down giving way to the new building under construction.

Registration of students before the end of one term for the work of the following term, which was tried out last year, has been abandoned and, beginning with the winter term, registration day will precede the first day of classes for the term.

COLLEGE HIGH AT INTERNATIONAL

Live Stock and Hay and Grain Exhibits at Exposition Again Result in Heavy Winnings for State in Many Classes.

Bringing home the longest list of prizes ever awarded exhibits from this state the college and the farm crops departments, as represented by the Michigan Crop Improvement association, set a record for achievement at the International live stock show and hay and grain exposition in Chicago early this month. It has been customary for Michigan exhibits to take a large share of the crop awards during the past few years and the live stock show has always been productive of pleasing results but the winnings this fall were higher and more important than ever before.

In the live stock exposition Pervenche, two-year-old Belgian mare, was proclaimed grand champion Belgian mare of the show. In swine carcasses the college exhibit made almost a clean sweep of the awards, taking first in each of three classes and second in the fourth class as well as having the grand and reserve champions. Oats, wheat, rye, barley, corn, peas, beans and hay from Michigan were close to the top all the way through the show.

R. S. Hudson, '07, superintendent of the farm, had charge of the horse exhibits; W. E. J. Edwards, associate professor of animal husbandry, handled the swine carcass showings and J. F. Cox, professor of farm crops, was in general charge of crops exhibits, assisted by Howard C. Rather, '17, secretary of the Michigan Crop Improvement association. At the hay and grain exposition the college was represented by a large display depicting the development of alfalfa growing in Michigan.

Seven horses were shown by the college. Pervenche was grand champion of its class, the other two Belgians placed second and fourth, respectfully, in their classes. Two Clydesdales placed second and sixth in their respective classes, and a Percheron took fifth prize in a list of 28 entries. Every horse entered by the college was awarded a prize. With sixty entries in swine the college captured forty prizes as well as taking almost all available places in the dressed carcass competition. A small entry list in cattle was rewarded by a prize for each animal. Two Herefords took seventh and eighth in their respective classes. One Aberdeen Angus took first in its class and a herd of three took fifth. Two prizes were won in another class and in the dressed carcass showing fourth place was awarded the college entry. In sheep there was a generous collection of third, fourth and fifth places.

Varieties developed at M. A. C. covered practically all of the winnings of Michigan farmers at the hay and grain exposition. Competing against some of the strongest corn states, entries supervised by the Michigan Crop Improvement association took a large number of prizes and this success was constant in the case of practically all grains adapted to use in Michigan. For this section of the country there were thirty available places in oats, Michigan took twenty-seven of these. Soft red winter wheat exhibits brought back twelve in twenty-five prizes, rye, sixteen of thirty, barley, fourteen of thirty, first five on white wheat, first three of five on both peas and field beans, six of ten on soy beans, sweepstakes on hay, nine of ten on flint corn, thirteen of twenty-five, including the first nine, of yellow dent corn.

College authorities believe that the triumph of Pervenche is the first instance in which a horse owned by a college carried off the honor.

The fact that Michigan was able to bring back such a large percentage of the available prizes is significant because of the position of the college in relation to the agriculture of the state but back of it lies the fact, often overlooked, that in farm crops most of the prizes were made possible because of the research performed at the college. Practically all of them were made possible because of the organization developed here and fostered by the farm crops department.

Wells Hall has reached its ultimate goal. An "open house" was sanctioned for the dormitory on December 7 and the residents entertained their guests at dancing in the society rooms on the top floors of wards A and F. Formerly the guests at such affairs were all male members of the student body and on some occasions their presence was the result of a royal "command." It is interesting to follow the gradual encroachments of "civilization" upon some of the most sacred precincts of the campus. With Williams hall but a memory and Abbot ruled by the co-eds there is little left to remind the student of a few years back of the type of college life which flourished in the dormitories.

The business of selecting the most representative men and women and the college beauties has been carried out by the students. No announcement has been made of the final results. The latter will be granted recognition first by the Detroit News which will publish portraits of them in an early issue. Ten were selected by the classes for their charms in pulchritude and this list will be reduced to four by judges who will also be selected by the Detroit newspaper's staff. The contests were conducted in connection with the 1924 Wolverine which will be the final objective of those selected in both classes.

VIEWS AND COMMENT

Construction of the Union Memorial building will completely alter the landscape from the old post office to the woman's building. That section of the campus is not now much like it was ten years ago and as it had been for years before that. The first step to change a long-familiar view was taken some few years ago when the house formerly occupied by the professor of horticulture was moved to Grand River avenue where it was changed into the Music center. Then there was another period of rest. The east end of the campus was quiet as other portions were undergoing changes. In the summer of 1922 the scene was changed by the razing of Howard Terrace and the subsequent erection of the Home Economics building, it was further changed by the cutting down of several trees which had long stood on the site and excavating for the Union Memorial building. Within two years the path from the old post office to the Woman's building will have been transformed from one of pastoral dignity to an avenue of academic charm.

The old post office building will have disappeared along with the red brick dwelling which stands next. The type of architecture common in the small town of a generation ago will have given way to appropriate designs which will retain the worth of ageless art and contribute their share to the beauty scheme of the campus. The east end is changing but it is taking upon itself new virtues which more than outshadow the old ones it may lose.

The holiday season will interrupt the regular appearance of THE RECORD for three weeks. It will be resumed on January 14 of the new year. For those not already familiar with the workings of the alumni office it is well to explain that THE RECORD is published thirty-five times each calendar year and three of its numbers are printed during the summer months necessitating an adjustment during the college year. This is effected by suspending publication for three weeks during the winter holidays and two more at the end of the winter term. These intervals also provide time for bringing up to date the work of the alumni office which must be delayed while THE RECORD is being published each week.

It is regrettable that incidents occur around any college such as that which caused the recent action of Acting President Shaw in suspending indefinitely from college two men, one very prominent in M. A. C. athletics. Because the college has borne such a fair reputation through its years such a happening stands out in bold relief. At larger schools such an incident is often passed unnoticed, unless of course the men involved happened to be as prominent as they did in our own case. College life of today has its pitfalls the same as it has had, it requires a self-controlled type of man or woman, it is not cloistered or it would lose much of its value, it is more or less a replica of life as the new graduate faces it. He must rely upon his own resources of will power and good judgment and upon the extent to which he develops these while in college depends his worth as a citizen. In more than one sense a college education is training for life.

The position of M. A. C. in the agricultural world is steadily growing stronger. Recent achievements at the International live stock and hay and grain expositions at Chicago stamp the college as being undeniably a leader, plant breeding, research, dissemination of information and improved products among the farmers of the state, all of these are credited to M. A. C. through the results of the competitive showings at the exposition.

The start of the new year is a good time to make good on that resolution to write to the office and tell THE RECORD what, in your opinion, ails it. The same mistakes will be made continuously unless they are pointed out. Criticism turned in the general direction of the alumni office does not reach its mark until it has lost much of its original force, praise is acceptable but constructive criticism is the more effective.

If the plan presented by the athletic board for a field for intra-mural sports is accepted by the State Board M. A. C. will be equipped with one of the best athletic plants in the country in proportion to the size of its student body and this condition will last over a long period of years. Adequate facilities for physical training will have been provided and will allow for a broad enough program to insure the participation in sports of every student physically able to take part. It will extend the benefits of organized, competitive exercise to every M. A. C. student, which is the ultimate goal of the department of physical education.

"Close Beside The Winding Cedar"

Women of the faculty are becoming expert marksmen under the instruction of the military department.

Dean Krueger believes it possible that dedication ceremonies for the new Home Economics building may be held during Farmers' Week.

Members of the Sororian society have again been released from quarantine restrictions. Cultures failed to prove that any were suffering from diphtheria.

Engineering students have secured a series of motion picture reels to be shown each month during the college year depicting manufacturing operations in various plants.

Several campus co-ed organizations worked together to carry Christmas cheer to the poor of Lansing. The Y. W. C. A. took the lead in the work and was seconded by other groups.

A group of students from Ann Arbor took over the services at the People's church on December 9. This was the first time that such an organization from another institution had conducted services in East Lansing.

H. R. Hunt, professor of zoology and geology, will institute a two-credit course in eugenics for the winter term. Professor Hunt has done research work along the lines of heredity and has published several papers on the subject.

Additional mounts to the number of twenty recently authorized for the M. A. C. cavalry unit by the war department have been received at the college and are being trained. This acquisition will give the cadets nearly sixty available horses.

Two men, P. J. Hartsuch, '24, Kendallville, Ind., and Douglas Steere, '23, now a student at Harvard, represented M. A. C. before the Rhodes Scholarship committee in December. A student at the University of Michigan was chosen for the honor.

The alumni movies are scheduled to appear in South Haven on December 26 at a meeting of the M. A. C. association at that place. Arrangements are being made to send them to practically all of the larger centers of alumni. There is a full reel of the pictures.

The Columbine Players, believed to be a forerunner of a Little Theater movement for M. A. C., are preparing a series of plays which they will present in the winter term. The organization is composed of students and selected faculty members and study and presentation of the drama is its object.

Wallace S. Beden, '16, was among those recently appointed second lieutenants of infantry in the organized reserves.

Frank Sorauf, Ironwood, was elected treasurer of the class of 1924 to replace M. G. O'Neil, who did not continue in college this fall.

At the recent anniversary dinner in honor of Dean Cooley of the engineering division of the University of Michigan, M. A. C. was represented by Acting President Shaw, F. F. Rogers, '83, state highway commissioner, and G. C. Dillman, '13, deputy state highway commissioner.

Recent trials have narrowed down the aspirants for debating honors to the following squad: E. R. Bristol, '24, Almont; C. F. Abel, '24, Sand Lake; G. Dobben, '24, Newaygo; H. F. Hollenbach, '24, Saginaw; E. C. Hayhow, '26, Royal Oak; C. D. Miller, '24, Eaton Rapids; T. L. Christie, '27; C. W. Kietzman, '27; L. H. Kelley, '27. From this group two teams of three men each will be chosen and an alternate will be chosen for each team.

Members of the Michigan State Association of Farmers' clubs together with a generous number of students and faculty members heard President Burton of the University of Michigan when he addressed the association of clubs on December 5. Other speakers included Eben Mumford, of the extension division, C. L. Brody, '04, of the State Farm bureau and many prominent in the affairs of the college and state agriculture.

"Land Contract Tables for Bankers and Real Estate Dealers," by L. C. Emmons, associate professor of mathematics, has found a ready sale and the first edition is nearly exhausted. He is planning on issuing a revised edition in the near future. The tables are bound in a convenient sized booklet and are used to solve four problems which confront the dealer in real estate. They are: The time necessary for a land contract to pay out. The time necessary to reduce any contract to a specified sum. The monthly payment required to pay off a contract in a given time at a given rate of interest. The interest yield on a land contract which has been discounted.

At the final convocation for the fall term, members of the state board of agriculture appeared before the students. Arrangements have been completed whereby convocations will be a regular event of the winter term. They will be held each Wednesday morning, 11 to 12, and attendance will not be compulsory but they will be made the occasion for enough events of interest to attract that greater proportion of the students.

RADIO PROGRAM SET FOR WINTER MONTHS

Alumni who reach into the air with radio sets for amusement and edification will find their search rewarded by programs direct from the campus during the winter months. A committee of students and faculty members has prepared a series of entertaining and instructive programs which will be broadcast weekly from the new college station beginning January 9. With its greatly increased radius WKAR should be heard by the greater majority of former students who desire to listen in.

While the regular programs will be sent out at stated intervals information of all kinds will be broadcast at other times during the week. Those interested in college sports will hear the results of athletic contests before they can read them in the newspapers and instructive and entertaining speakers will speak at different times during the winter.

A special series of programs will be broadcast during Farmers' week under the direction of a faculty committee but most of the programs through the season will be provided by the students. Each regular program will be sent out at 8 o'clock, central standard time, Wednesday evenings. The wave length of the college station is 280 meters and its radius is from 1500 to 2000 miles.

Alumni Opinion

R. E. Caryl, '14, left; M. R. Brundage, '15, right

Dear Mac:

After a very important Thanksgiving day conference over the merits, pro and con, of the enclosed photo, M. R. Brundage, '15, and I, have decided to submit same for your approval. (Inasmuch as we have both paid our annual dues.)

Picture taken in front of his home in Sonora, Calif., last August where I visited him on my vacation trip.

We respectfully request that other members of '14 and '15 overcome their extreme modesty and show us a few of their accomplishments.

Yours very truly,

R. E. Caryl, '14.

BASKETBALL TEAM IN CHICAGO DEC. 22

Chicago alumni who desire to see the M. A. C. basketball team in action will have an opportunity to do so when Coach Walker takes his squad to the University of Chicago on December 22. This will be the third appearance of an M. A. C. squad in that city within the year. In baseball last spring the Chicago team was defeated on its own diamond, 9 to 0, in football what Director Stagg characterized as the most interesting opening game in Chicago's history resulted in a victory for the Maroon. The basketball squad has a chance to turn the results of the year to the credit of M. A. C. although its strength in comparison with that of Chicago is still very much debatable.

Information in regard to tickets for this game may be obtained from the offices of the athletic department of the University of Chicago. This is the first time in the history of M. A. C. athletics that it has been so often represented on Chicago schedules, one of the few times over a long period when alumni in and around Chicago could see the teams without going a considerable distance for the opportunity. The basketball team this year lacks the services of Robinson, dependable center on last year's squad, MacMillan, forward, and Fessenden, guard. The center and forward berths will be the hardest to fill, although some of the material which has appeared in early practice has possibilities.

In answer to the first call issued for freshman basketball players, seventy-eight men reported to Director Young. Two-thirds of that number also replied to his call for track candidates.

THE BARBECUE "HATCHET"

For fifteen years this weapon has been the center of the barbecue ceremony which was originated to mark the end of hostilities between the two lower classes.

FOOTBALL BANQUET IS BIGGEST IN HISTORY

With the official title of referee and a cow bell to notify the participants in the event when he wished to enforce his decisions, Jammy Hays, '11, carried the Central Michigan M. A. C. Association annual football banquet through to a most successful conclusion with the aid of several able speakers and his annual number of stories. As a testimonial to the entire football squad, freshmen, reserves and scrubs, and the Lansing high players, the event of December 15 at the Lansing Woman's clubhouse was the biggest demonstration in years, if not the biggest of its sort in the history of the college.

Alumni, students, and friends of the college and Lansing high school gathered to the number of 250 to pay tribute to the gridiron warriors of the city and college and succeeded in a way which speaks volumes for the cordial relations existing between the city and M. A. C.

There was an orchestra from the college and several special stunts which helped to beguile the time for the crowd. Meeting at 6:30 the proceedings were not complete until nearly 11 o'clock when the last picture of the alumni movies appeared on the screen and the crowd stood and sang "Alma Mater." President Shaw, Secretary Halladay, "Carp" Julian, L. Whitney Watkins, James Killoran, H. L. ("Brownie") Springer, all voiced their praise of the squad and coaches and Director Young added his bit to what had been said of the team presenting the monograms and numerals to the squads in completing his portion of the program. Captain-elect Hultman and Captain Oade of the high school teams were also featured on the program.

As special guests of the alumni for the evening, fifty prominent athletes from cities throughout the state where alumni are coaching were in attendance. The high schools, besides Lansing, represented were: Muskegon, Saginaw, Grand Rapids Union, Grand Rapids Central, Grand Rapids Junior college, Jackson, Hastings, Lowell, Hamtramck, Flint, Greenville, Hastings, Albion, St. Louis, Portland, Manchester and Addison. At the start of the program each coach was asked to introduce the men he had brought with him.

President Shaw told much of the aims and accomplishments of the college and opportunities awaiting its graduates who took full advantage of the chances they had for training both of mind and body. "Jim" Killoran, known to many M. A. C. students and alumni, spoke of his regard for M. A. C. and urged all of the youths to accept his viewpoint that they could not select a better institution at which to continue their educations. "Carp" Julian and L. Whitney Watkins added to the enthusiasm of the evening by their interpretations of M. A. C. life. A boxing bout and an exhibition by a vaudeville actor contributed the main amusement of the evening.

The alumni movies, shown for the first time, were found to be lacking in some respects as perfect examples of the art of the silver screen but depicted faithfully many events which have taken place at the college during the past year. The football views were especially satisfying and those of the campus brought applause from the crowd.

BASKETBALL TEAM WINS FIRST GAME

In its first appearance of the season the varsity basketball team had but little trouble defeating the Adrian college five, 25 to 12, at the gymnasium on December 15. At no time was the lead of the Green and White threatened by the visitors and Coach Walker took the opportunity to try out most of his squad, sending a total of fourteen players into the fray. In the first half he replaced the varsity starters with a team composed of four men from the freshman team of last season and Bilkey, who saw duty with the reserves, and this combination showed the best work of the afternoon. In the second half the Adrian quintet scored as often as the home team but it was working against second and third string men throughout the period. Nuttilla, Ralston, J. Kidman and Hultman of last year's varsity appear to be the only members of the squad likely to see more or less steady service until the preliminary games are out of the way and Coach Walker has decided upon the combination he will use.

Robinson, who was held in the hospital for several days as a diphtheria suspect, has been released and may be in shape for participation with the squad before the season closes. Richards is also expected to take one of the positions on the team during part of the schedule.

The summary:

M. A. C. (25)	Adrian (12)
Nuttilla	L. F. Kirk
Ralston	R. F. Cooper
Kitto	C. Haworth
J. Kidman	L. G. Richardson (C)

MICHIGAN WILL COME TO STADIUM IN 1924

It was announced officially from both Ann Arbor and East Lansing early this month that the annual Michigan game would take place in the new stadium on October 11 next fall. No definite action toward that end has been taken by the board in control of athletics but it is generally believed that Michigan's appearance will be coincident with the dedication of the stadium.

It has been some years since the Michigan eleven last faced M. A. C. on its home field, mainly because of the financial advantage of playing the game at Ann Arbor. Now that the stadium is in shape for use a large enough crowd can be accommodated to insure the advisability of bringing the Wolverine to East Lansing. At previous contests on College Field the largest number of spectators admitted to a game saw Michigan win by 3 to 0 in 1914. That crowd was estimated at 6,500. At least three times this number will be able to find seats in the new stands. In 1911 Vost's team took a 15 to 3 game from M. A. C. on College field before a smaller crowd than watched the contest three years later. There has been apparent throughout a willingness of the university authorities to send their teams to East Lansing but the equipment, hitherto, has not been such as to make the venture profitable in the face of the large returns possible at Ferry Field, which have been largely relied upon to carry through the fall program.

According to D. A. Brice, '13, president, the western New York M. A. C. association will hold its annual meeting in Rochester during the second week in January. Brice reports that the meeting will be held at the time the State Agricultural society holds its sessions as at that time a large number of M. A. C. people are gathered in Rochester. A committee is working on the details of the affair which is always the biggest event of the year in alumni circles in that part of the country.

CLASS NOTES

Since the first request was sent out for photographs or snapshots for the columns of Class Notes there have been portrayed representatives of a wide range of classes. There is room in The Record for one of these pictures each week. They add greatly to the value of the publication, according to its readers. If you have not conferred this favor upon your friends in the ranks of the M. A. C. association do so at your first opportunity.
