ANNIVERSARY RADIO PROGRAM

President Shaw Outlines Progress of College—Rather and Young Speak.

In honor of the anniversary of the College on May 13 there was a short program sent out by WKAR noting the occasion. It was representative of the alumni and College administration. The following took part: Acting President Shaw, Director Ralph Young, Howard C. Rather, '17, Helen Dodge Stack, '17, the varsity quartette and the secretary of the M. A. C. Association. Mrs. Stack sang, appropriately to the season, "In Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "Creation." The quartette furnished the final number on the list and sang "The Hunting Song" from "Robin Hood"; "Kentucky Lullaby"; and closed with "Alma Mater".

Acting President Shaw's greetings to the alumni follows:

Sixty-seven years ago today the Michigan Agricultural College opened its doors with an enrollment of 123 students. Provision for the establishment of the institution had been made by the state constitution of 1850 followed by the necessary legislative enactment in 1855. It thus became the first institution of its kind to be established on the American continent. The earlier years were ones of adversity including meagre building facilities and equipment, very limited financial support and lack of general public approval and support. On the other hand however, during these early years of struggle the small faculty comprised men of splendid scientific training, sterling worth, calm judgment and personalities which left an indelible impression upon the students trained under them. These are some of the reasons why the institution now rests on such a substantial foundation and why its alumni have been so eminently successful.

M. A. C. is pursuing, as ever, its policy of building the super-structure of the technical training on a broad substantial basis, including both scientific and cultural subjects thus recognizing the "liberal" in education. Adjustments are constantly being made to meet the changing conditions.

Sixty-seven years ago the college land area at East Lansing comprised 676 acres which has been increased to 1220 acres including the farm, campus, gardens, orchards, experimental fields, forest nurseries and athletic grounds. The lands and buildings are valued at about $3,000,000. Six courses are being offered in place of the one originally. Adapted course revisions are being put into effect. The enrollment of regular students exceeds that of other years. The graduate school numbering over fifty ranks among the leaders of the land grant colleges. The institution never had a stronger or more efficient instructional staff. Both research and extension organizations have recently been most highly commended by federal inspectors.

Both men and women student bodies have become highly satisfactory self-governing organizations with enviable disciplinary records thus far this year maintaining a morale of high status. The wonderful campus was never more gorgeously beautiful than this spring. The spirit of democracy still lives and guides and directs, and the athletic fighting spirit has become a reality again. In view of all these and many other favorable conditions the institution with its magnificent income is set with sails unfurled full against the breeze headed toward goals of greater influence and usefulness.

The welfare of any educational institution is largely dependent on the sympathetic interest and support of its alumni. Frequent visits are necessary to maintain an intimate contact as changes in organization, personnel, equipment, facilities and courses are continually occurring in the ordinary steps of progress.

It is our most earnest wish that both alumni and friends alike keep in intimate touch with the work and progress of M. A. C. that they may aid in giving to the institution the modest publicity it so well deserves.

Therefore, the State Board of Agriculture, administrative officers and faculty of the Michigan Agricultural College are especially glad, on this occasion, to extend to alumni and friends of the college a most hearty welcome, upon their return at any time.

Part of the address of Howard Rather, '17, follows:

I do not believe that M. A. C. ceased to function with graduation of the class of 1917. The student body is no larger now than it was then, to be sure. Neither have our banners flown quite so proudly over the gridiron. But the service for which this institution was founded has reached out and directly influenced more people in the past ten years than it had in all its previous history. M. A. C. is not confined to East Lansing. Her campus stretches out to every county and township in the state, and to every home that would use her service. Not merely 1600 students enrolled in East Lansing constitute her student body, but more than 580,000 attended her 22,000 overstate classes last year.

Such classes get results, too. Practical results, economical results. Four years ago Michigan farmers knew little about alfalfa and believed the crop unsafe. To-day, after an intensive M. A. C. educational campaign on alfalfa growing Michigan has become the leading alfalfa state east of the Mississippi, a position that in 1923 alone added seven and one-half million dollars to Michigan's wealth.

M. A. C. engineering alumni are building the great network of highways for which Michigan is famed. They are building her automobiles, designing her buildings and bridges, and winning a reputation for industry and efficiency that caused one great employer to say that he got his best engineers from this institution and one other like it.

That is the M. A. C. of today. It is a growing M. A. C. Its new Science and Arts courses open great fields of endeavor. Its campus life, changed some in form, is still permeated with the same spirit, a better spirit under President Shaw today than it has enjoyed for years.

You have heard of the plans President Shaw has been developing for M. A. C. In those plans, he has voiced your ideals and your aspirations for your college. I've talked with scores of Alumni and scores of students and I believe I know what you feel.

Your college has been buffeted by severe tempests. The breakers have not yet been stilled. Would that more of you might be in a position to better know her affairs and needs. Would that a more intimate association were possible for with your devotion to M. A. C. ideals, your voice and spirit would unite in backing the course of the constructive leaders here whose practical forward-looking and forward-moving policies for this institution are born of the same unselfish motives of service as are yours, whose policies, if forwarded, will make "Service and Progress" known all over the country as the watchword of M. A. C.

In the course of his discussion Director Young brought out the history of the development of athletics, told of the equipment of the College for its courses in physical education and intercollegiate competition and called the attention of the alumni to the Michigan football game and dedication of the new stadium on October 11 which will also be the official Homecoming game of the season. He warned his hearers that applications for tickets would not be accepted before September 1 and that the number of seats available for that day would be limited, in view of the large crowd expected to attend.

CLASSES PLAN FOR REUNIONS

Resident Alumni Take Up Business of Conducting Affairs on June 14.

A few '09'ers of Lansing and East Lansing have met and organized into a working group for the purpose of planning and putting "across" in real '09 style our 15th reunion at M. A. C. the coming 14th of June.

Here's the result. Ray Turner is general chairman. Spurway, Tanner, Fairbanks, Robertson and the Hudson sisters will see that we get "eats" and plenty of them. Hugh Pratt, Art Sargant, Jerry Allen and Lena Smith VanHaltern will plan stunts, so look out. The writer was unlucky enough to draw the chairmanship of the publicity committee, but look—I have Kindig, Les Belknap, "Ty" Cobb and Aileen Raynor Atkinson to back me up with my "gift of gab."

Now then, remember June 14th you have a date, you and the family. Face Lansingward, put aside financial and political cares and join the old bunch for a "ripping good time."

Olive Graham Bennett,
Chairman, Publicity Committee.

Members of the class of 1914 who now make their homes in East Lansing or some of its suburbs met at the Hunt Food Shop for dinner on May 20 and discussed plans for the tenth reunion. Committees were chosen by J. W. Weston, chairman of the tentative committee on arrangements. Frances Kirk Patch, Bertha VanOrden Baldwin, and several others were allowed to take some of the important jobs and given the option of doing the work themselves or seeing that someone else performed it in their stead. The male element of the class in the surrounding territory was also directed as to the duties expected of it.

One of the features of the reunion will be a class dinner at the Hunt Food Shop on June 14 at 5:30 o'clock. At this meeting prizes will be awarded to the member of the class with the largest family, the one with the least hair, the one who was forced to exert the most effort to attend the reunion, the one who exerted the least, and other marks of prowess will be recognized. The committee on prizes has entered enough orders to keep one blacksmith shop working overtime. Members of the class will not be allowed to nominate themselves for prizes. Problems concerning the class fund and other matters not quite so serious will be carefully discussed. Those who attended the meeting were: Frances Kirk Patch, Marion Sly Towar, Ove Jensen, J. W. and Helen Philleo Weston, J. W. and Mrs. Longnecker, L. T. and Mrs. Dendel, Margaret Holbrook Hartsuch and B. E. Hartsuch, Vern and Mrs. Freeman, R. J. and Mrs. McCarthy.

In a letter signed by E. A. Seelye, F. H. Sanford, C. L. Brody and R. J. Baldwin, the class of 1904 sets forth reasons why all its members should attend the twentieth reunion on June 14. A list of the names and addresses of all the class was sent to each one with instructions to write to the ones they most desired to meet at the reunion.

The following paragraph was included in the letter: "You ought to be here to see all the old bunch. You ought to know M. A. C. as she is today. You ought to know about the big movement under way to put M. A. C. over the top with 3000 students. It would inspire you to see the old campus in its June splendor. It would delight you to see the new buildings and stadium. It would certainly be worth all the effort it would cost you to be here and again be enthused by that old time spirit of M. A. C."

Kathryn Lou Branch, 617 N. Fayette, Saginaw, is in charge of gathering the members of the class of 1923 for their first reunion. Those who have not heard from her in regard to the affair are urged to write to the address given herewith.

VIEWS AND COMMENT

To the one who has made up his mind to forego the pleasures of Alumni Day, to deny himself the privilege of seeing the cornerstone of the new Union Memorial building put into place, to walk and talk again on Campus paths, to become more familiar with the physical progress of his alma mater, there is but little argument which now can be offered to convince such a person that the road to East Lansing is the path for him to take on June 14.

The multitude of opportunities presented for the benefit of the alumnus cannot all be named for they are often peculiar to the individual. It is planned that there will be a chance for alumni to see and talk to the newly elected president. He has been invited to give a short address at the time of the alumni luncheon. There will be a complete printed report on the affairs of the Union Memorial building fund and the annual report of the secretary of the M. A. C. Association will be given to each one attending the luncheon. All possible will be done at the College to insure an enjoyable day for the visitors with the assurance that it will be possible to do more in another year when the Union Memorial building should be ready for use.

Alumni Day this year is replete with events and special attractions to all former students and those interested in the welfare of the College. Last year's celebration marked a milestone of great importance but the one in 1924 brings the institution to the point where its path is leading into an expanded vista of service through fields of prosperity for itself and the educational plans of the state.

Wrought iron gates have been put into place in the fence around the new stadium and the field is looking its best, grading has been completed around the Library and Home Economics building and the grounds have been cleared of all building materials and other evidences of recent construction which have marked their surroundings for the past two years. Work has been started on the new concrete bridge across the Red Cedar where it was dropped last winter. There is but little to say about the Union Memorial building, the only proof of progress necessary is for the person interested to visit the Campus. Brick, stone and window frames are in place up to the second floor and work is being rushed so that space can be provided for the alumni luncheon. The Campus itself will present a sight well worth the efforts required to make the trip, it is always so in June.

COMING EVENTS

June 6—Baseball, Notre Dame, East Lansing.

June 14—Alumni Day: Alumni luncheon at noon; cornerstone ceremony, Union Memorial building, 2:30; President's Reception and Alumni Dance, 8:00.

June 15—Baccalaureate, Dr. K. L. Butterfield, '91.

June 16—Commencement, Dean D. S. Kimball, Cornell University.

Army inspecting officers made their annual visit to the College on May 23 and 24. On the first day of their visit they reviewed the cadet regiment and went through the customary formalities attendant upon such an event and on the following day they looked over the equipment of the department. Col. Sherburne reports that the officers were well pleased with the unit and expects recognition for the College.

"Close Beside The Winding Cedar"

Herdell of the varsity squad of sprinters and Alderman and Grim of the freshman group were entered in the Olympic try-outs at Ann Arbor.

On May 27 candidates for Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity discussed the relative merits of co-eds and Lansing girls for the entertainment of a capacity crowd.

Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, has installed a chapter at the College. Those eligible for membership must have served at least two years as regular members of the staff of College publications.

ALUMNI DAY SPEAKER

Joseph B. Cotton, '86

With an entry list of sixteen state colleges the intercollegiate tennis tournament held on the Campus on May 30 and 31 was a complete test of the skill of the various teams.

Letters have been sent to members of the classes in college at the time J. B. Cotton was here so that they may all know of the opportunity they will have to hear the champion orator of his time.

Facilities will be provided for the registration of all alumni and former students who return on June 14. The value of doing this is two-fold, it helps the alumni office to keep your address correct and because of this information being reliable will keep you in touch with your friends.

Detroit Sororians are planning to visit the College and met with the Lansing girls on Saturday, June 14, which will take the place of the regular monthly meeting in Detroit. Sororian Alumnae wishing to go are asked to communicate with Mrs. James B. Wilkinson, 4224 Glendale avenue, Detroit.

W. K. Prudden, '78, has returned from California and will be present on Alumni Day. He has been assigned the actual work of putting the cornerstone of the Union Memorial building into place. His feat on June 16, 1923, of doing the excavating for the building recommends him for the task on June 14 of this year.

Although the picnic style of lunch which will be served on Alumni Day is not quite so pretentious as other attempts have been it should be satisfying and should fulfill all the expectations of the crowd as a picnic lunch and not as the type the public can get in a first class restaurant with the accompanying service. The price will be one dollar per box, and a box will always hold more than a plate.

NECROLOGY

FRED HERRINGTON, '84.

The following account of the life of Fred Herrington, '84, is reprinted from a Denver, Colo., newspaper:

Fred Herrington, prominent Denver clubman and attorney, died at St. Joseph's hospital Monday morning, May 10, at 5:30 o'clock. Altho he had been ill for six months, his condition did not become critical until several days ago.

Born near Pontiac, Mich., sixty-one years ago, Herrington attended the Pontiac high school and later the Michigan Agricultural college, from which he graduated in 1884 with the degree of B. S. After completing his school work, Herrington studied law in the office of his brother, Cass E. Herrington, who was then practicing at Pontiac.

In 1889 the two brothers came to Denver and opened a law office under the firm name of C. E. and F. Herrington. This partnership continued until 1898, when Fred entered the legal department of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company. During his twenty years' connection with this concern he served first as general counsel for the operating department, and then with his brother, Cass, as general counsel for the company.

Herrington was devoted entirely to his profession and never sought an elective or appointive public office. As an attorney his experience was unusually wide, having tried cases in the courts of Michigan, Colorado, New York, Missouri, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, California and Texas. Herrington also had argued cases before the circuit court of appeal and the supreme court of the United States.

He was a member of the Denver club, the University club, the Denver Country club, and the Denver, Colorado and American Bar associations.

Beside Cass E. Herrington, he is survived by three brothers, Thomas, also a Denver attorney; George, of Pueblo, and Samuel of Pontiac, and three sisters, Mary and Florence Herrington and Mrs. Grace Charles, all of Pontiac.

Interment was at Fairmount cemetery.

TAYLOR CHOSEN DEAN OF WASHINGTON ASS'N

The M. A. C. Association of Washington, D. C. held a luncheon meeting at Harvey's restaurant May 9. The meeting was called to order by the President, H. C. Skeels.

L. G. Michaels of the bureau of agricultural economics and Dr. L. J. Briggs of the bureau of standards, were the speakers for the day. L. G. Michaels very interestingly told of the meeting of the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome. Dr. Briggs told of his work at the bureau of standards, and also of the work of some of the other M. A. C. people, including that of I. J. Fairchild, and that of H. H. Allen.

A magazine "American Forest and Forest Life" giving the picture of Dr. Beal was passed about the crowd and it was voted that a letter of greetings be sent to Dr. Beal. Unfortunately this did not reach Amherst before his death.

The Association unanimously voted to make Dr. Wm. A. Taylor the Dean of the Alumni Association.

FRESHMEN SHOW WELL IN STATE COMPETITION

Combined scores of varsity and freshmen would have put M. A. C. far in the lead in the state intercollegiate track meet on College field on May 24, but the two teams competed independently and the varsity was barely able to land in third place. The freshmen with 17 points were in fifth place. Cool weather hindered the trackmen in their efforts to lower marks for the meet but Alderman, freshman star ran the 220 in 21.7 for a new record and came within a half inch of the broad jump record. Hartsuch and Herdell in their last events as members of the varsity squad took 15 points between them. Seitz, Detroit, tied the pole vault mark at 11 feet, three inches. Summary:

COMMITTEE APPROVES PROPOSED NEW NAME

Favorable actions was taken on changing the name of the College to Michigan State College at the meeting of the executive committee of the M. A. C. Association on May 21. A committee headed by A. B. Cook, '93, reported that it had received a number of letters favoring the change and that in view of the general sentiment expressed by alumni and students that there should be a name for the College more indicative of the work given for the benefit of both the College and the alumni it favored the name recommended by President Shaw, "Michigan State College of Agriculture, Engineering, Arts and Science," with the general understanding that the modifying words would be used on official documents rather than as a direct designation of the College. On motion of Frank F. Rogers, '83, the report of the committee was accepted and the secretary was directed to notify the State Board of the action of the committee.

The secretary was directed to invite Charles W. Garfield, '70, to give a short eulogy of Dr. Beal at the alumni luncheon, he was also instructed to invite President-elect Butterfield to address the alumni for ten minutes at the luncheon and a representative of Pond and Pond to speak for a short time at the ceremony at the laying of the cornerstone of the Union Memorial building.

It was decided by the committee that there should be no general campaign for subscription during the reunion period but that a place be established where new pledges could be signed and payments made. W. K. Prudden was invited to officiate in the actual laying of the cornerstone and the following were invited to act as his official aides: J. W. Beaumont, Mrs. J. W. Beaumont, L. T. Clarke, J. B. Cotton, Henry A. Haigh, W. L. Harvey, H. Jay Hayes, George J. Jenks, Frank S. Kedzie, J. R. McColl, R. B. McPherson, D. E. Bates, C. E. Smith, O. E. Sovereign, Horace Thomas.

High school bands held sway on the Campus on May 24 and Flint central carried off the honors of the day. Nashville was second, Allegan, third and Grand Rapids South, fourth. About 350 high school pupils were in attendance and Professor Clark, in general charge of the affair looks for a large percentage of them to choose M. A. C. as the college they will attend when their high school courses are completed.

CLASS NOTES

The classes of '69, '74, '82, '83, '84, '85, '89, '94, '99, '01, '02, '03, '04, '09, '14, '19, '20, '21, '22, '23 are all due for reunions on June 14 and members of all other classes who take this opportunity to visit the Campus will find many of their friends and classmates. The above list is selected under the Dix plan and on the basis of special reunions every five years. A special effort is made to get the members of these groups back while general inducements are offered the other classes during the years when they do not have regular reunions. There is a good enough selection of classes to insure that everyone returning will find college friends at least, if the proportion of classmates is small.

Am certain a short snappy name is best and agree with the Chicago alumni in urging the adoption of Michigan State College. Belong to the University club here and find it very awkward to explain that I graduated from an agricultural college because in this state the agricultural college is merely a branch or department of the state university." Preferred Position

Old Timers in advertising well remember that the best preferred position in any small town "sheet" thirty years ago was alongside the personals.

The alumni publication is the only magazine today that offers advertising space alongside personal news notes.

These notes are all about personal friends of the readers.

So—every page is preferred position.

Forty-four alumni publications have a combined circulation of 160,000 college trained men. Advertising space may be bought individually or collectively—in any way desired. Two page sizes—only two plates necessary—group advertising rates.

10 locomotives will take the place of 25

Electric locomotives draw long trains 650 miles over the Rocky Mountains on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. Eventually most of the railroads in America will be electrified—engineers estimate that this will save more than a hundred million tons of coal a year.

The General Electric Company is electrifying the Mexican Railway between Orizaba and Esperanza. On the first section—with many curves and heavy grades—10 electric locomotives will take the place of 25 steam locomotives.

Economies resulting from electrification will repay the cost of the improvement within five or six years.
