THE M. A. C. RECORD

VOL. XXV.

EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN, DECEMBER 12, 1919.

NO. 12

A FUEL COMMITTEE of eight men representing various groups of Lansing business men and citizenry was appointed last week by the Chamber of Commerce to take charge of the very serious situation resulting from the shortage of coal in Lansing. W. K. Prudden, '78, was selected as chairman of the committee and Clarence E. Holmes, '93, superintendent of the School for the Blind was also a member. On Friday and Saturday, all factories of Lansing were closed and their fuel supply for those two days turned over to the city electric light and water plants which were entirely without fuel. Business offices and stores were required to close at four and all the nonessential establishments have been closed down indefinitely unless they are using power other than that obtained from coal. Churches are being opened for Sunday services only and all amusements and entertainments are being closely restricted. The orders drawn by the committee are stricter than at any time during the war when transportation facilities were so limited. Street lighting has been reduced to only that which is necessary for safety and all electric signs and window display lights are taking a rest. A visitor on Washington Ave. or in the East Lansing business section at six o'clock in the evening might easily imagine himself in Paris during an air raid.

THE FUEL COMMITTEE'S ruling closing all industries, including printing establishments last Friday and Saturday, came Thursday afternoon just as the Record was being made up. It was able to get "under the wire" and came out only through the printers working until midnight on Thursday. The agreeing of the miners to President Wilson's proposal will probably relieve the situation in Lansing. At least, we are going forward in the hope that the Record can come out as usual for the rest of the winter.

THE EAST LANSING POST of the American Legion has appointed a committee to find a suitable place for the M. A. C. service flag. A case will probably be made, but a place has not yet been decided upon. When the new Memorial building is completed, it will undoubtedly be placed there permanently.

MYRON CHAPIN of the drawing department has an exhibit of drawings and paintings in the engineering building. This exhibit was put up especially for the meeting of the Engineers' Club of Lansing, which was entertained at the college Monday night, but is being left up during the week. These were all done while Mr. Chapin was in overseas' service, and include some beautiful and historic scenes in France.

AT THE MICHIGAN STATE meeting of Farmers' Clubs held in Lansing last week, it was voted that the farm clubs should have their own newspaper, with policy controlled by five members, two from M. A. C., one a member of their own association, one a Gleaner and one a Granger. Among other resolutions adopted was one concerning the high cost of food. They decided that the high prices at present are due to too much legislation and too much investigation into the high cost of living by federal, state and municipal authorities, and that the only effective means of reducing high prices is more products. They put themselves on record as standing for the retention of control of railroads, telegraphs, and express companies by the federal government until, in time of peace, there shall be established comparison with corporate control.

THE Y. M. C. A. FINANCIAL campaign finished successfully last week, with the required budget of $3,000 raised.

THE SPEAKING CONTEST by members of the senior Hort class at M. A. C., such as was always held before the war, was one of the features of the State Horticultural Society meeting held in Detroit at the Hotel Statler December 2, 3 and 4. Talks were given by ten students and every one was splendid and well received. The first prize was won by L. A. Spencer of South Haven, who talked on "The Bitter Rot of the Apple." The "Apple Scab," by Earl Hendershott of East Lansing, and "The Tractor on the Fruit Farm," by Stanley Johnson, of Roscommon, won second and third prizes, respectively. The prizes were $15, $10 and $5. These were all five-minute talks. George A. Hawley, '92, nurseryman at Hart; Floyd Barden, '08, of South Haven, fruit grower; Frank H. McDermid, '12, fruit grower at Battle Creek, and Ezra Kraus, '07, of the University of Wisconsin, all took part in the program. Prof. Halligan and other members of the Hort department at the college, attended the meeting.

M. A. C. Co-EDS will have an indoor athletic meet at the gymnasium on Saturday, December 13. The seniors and juniors will meet in a game of basketball, the freshmen will play the sophomores in volley ball, and also in a game of captain ball. Track events will also be a feature of the day. A game of hockey was scheduled between the seniors and juniors, but the snow came on and prevented it. This is the second annual athletic contest between the girls, the first one having been held last year at the close of the winter term.

COLONEL C. J. ALDER, inspecting officer from the district headquarters office in Chicago, made the quarterly inspection of the college companies this week. He stated that the M. A. C. regiment ranks far ahead of any other in the district, which is composed of the three states of Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin, and that it is rated in Washington as one of the best, if not the best, in the country.

THE FIFTY-FOURTH annual meeting of the Michigan Beekeepers' Association which was to hold meetings at the college and Lansing, December 9, 10, 11, was obliged to hold all meetings at the college because of the shortage of coal in Lansing. The meeting convened Tuesday noon with an address of welcome by President F. S. Kedzie. B. F. Kindig, with '09, state bee inspector, and secretary of the association, gave a report. On Friday, R. H. Kely, '19, instructor in apiculture and inspector of apiaries, spoke on "A Comparison of the Climatic Conditions of the Upper and Lower Peninsulas of Michigan as Affecting the Keeping of Bees." About two hundred enthusiastic apiarists in no wise deterred by the cold wave enjoyed the week's meetings.

MEMBERS OF THE ENGINEERS CLUB of Lansing were entertained by the Engineering department at the college on Monday evening of this week. Prof. Paul G. Andres, '16, of the electrical department, spoke on "New Ways of Describing Electrical Phenomena," illustrated by some very graphic experiments. Following the lecture, a boxing tilt by four young men students eased the mental tension of the guests. A tour of inspection of R. E. Olds Hall was one of the entertainment features of the evening.

DR. W. W. DIEHL, '87, was the speaker at the East Lansing Open Forum, Sunday evening, December 7. His topic was "Soil and Salvation."

M. A. C. CHAPTER of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity at the college, initiated four new members Thursday, December 4. The newly enrolled members are Edward Hach, '20, of Saginaw, J. S. Holt, '20, East Lansing, Frank Jacobs, '21, Alanson, and J. F. Gibbs, '20, Shelby. The society now has thirteen active members.

ALUMNI AND ATHLETICS.

Since the football season, alumni of the University of Michigan, headed by the M. Club, have raised the question of Michigan's football failure. Michigan alumni to the number of seven hundred and fifty met in Detroit recently to ask the reason for Michigan's losses this fall. It was widely hinted that the coach was at fault. A failing coach, lack of material, ineligibility through scholarship, lack of team leadership, and a dearth of individual stars were causes brought out and discussed at the meeting. A committee of alumni was appointed to make a thorough search of the athletic situation at Michigan, particularly as it pertained to this season's football.

However, there was one point that thrust itself up out of the discussion and demanded consideration. It was this: What are Michigan alumni themselves doing to make successful teams? After inventorying their own activities toward producing a winning team, it became apparent that their state organization to secure high school athletic material for Michigan must be rebuilt and strengthened. This organization has been functioning but never in a strength that they propose to carry on in the future.

M. A. C. alumni could do well to organize themselves for a similar purpose. While the university has a student group of some three thousand to draw from for football material, M. A. C. whose freshmen class was very large this year, had but three hundred from which to select a team. It is well that the difference between these figures of available material does not measure a comparison between the fighting qualities of the two teams.

An alumni athletic committee about the state that would send to M. A. C. the best high school athletes from their local communities would be of a wonderful assistance in building up strong athletic teams. Everyone likes winning teams and they furnish exceptional publicity for any institution.

Nor is there anything illegitimate about the activities of such an organization. It is a straight selling proposition. It simply means placing the merits of M. A. C. before high school graduates and young men looking for a college to enter. M. A. C. has enough to offer any prospective college student so that exaggerations or other inducements are not necessary. Michigan's agricultural college can be sold on its own merits. No one knows that better than her alumni.

An alumni organization state-wide need not confine its efforts in the interests of athletics alone, but should extend its activity to reach out for every prospective student. Such efforts should be considered not in the light of a favor to the college, but rather as plain alumni duty.

MILWAUKEE M. A. C. AND U. OF M. ALUMNI HOLD FOOTBALL SMOKER.

A letter from William L. Davidson, '13, President of the Milwaukee Association, bears the following announcement, "The football season is over and the hatchet is buried, so lets get together. The M. A. C. men in Milwaukee are invited to meet with the University of Michigan alumni at a luncheon to be held in the Milwaukee Athletic Club, Wednesday evening, December 10."

Bowling and smoking are the events announced besides a buffet luncheon. The University of Michigan has two hundred names on its Milwaukee roster.

HORTS GATHER IN WASHINGTON STATE.

The annual meeting of the Washington State Horticultural Association and the Northwestern Fruit Growers' Conference held at the Davenport Hotel, Spokane, December 1-5, was of unique interest to M. A. C. men. On the program M. A. C. was represented by more graduates of its horticultural department than was any other school—a singular circumstance considering the fact that a distance of twenty-five hundred miles and many intervening states separated them from the campus. It was likewise a tribute to the Hort. department that its graduates should be thus prominently identified with the greatest apple-growing section of the world. The success of the meeting was largely due to the untiring efforts of Prof. M. L. Dean, a former M. A. C. student and an instructor in the Hort. department for several years. He is now Horticultural commissioner for the state of Washington and as secretary of the association was responsible for most of the details of the program and the convention. But perhaps the happiest feature of the meeting for M. A. C. men was the presence of Prof. H. J. Eustace, now of San Francisco, and western publicity manager for the Curtis Publishing Co. Prof. Eustace carried a timely message to the fruit growers of the northwest in an excellent paper on "Enlarging the Market for Western Fruit." In his introductory remarks he took occasion to point out the fact that three generations of M. A. C. men were represented on the program, Prof. Dean, who had been his instructor could pose as "grandpa," and since he, himself, had later come to instruct others in horticulture at M. A. C., he could claim to be "father," while the "boys" were represented by S. O. Vandenburg, '15, Boise, Idaho, chief horticultural inspector for Idaho, Lee M. Hutchins, '13, and D. F. Fisher, '12, both from the office of fruit disease investigations, U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry. Besides those mentioned above the following M. A. C. men were in attendance: E. R. Bennett, '02, extension horticulturist for the University of Idaho, A. G. Craig, '02, prominent fruit grower of East Farms, Wash., and R. R. Pailthorpe, '13, specialist in Grades and Standards for the U. S. Bureau of Markets, Spokane, Wash. Aside from the talk by Prof. Eustace, the feature of the program was an address by G. Harold Powell, general manager for the California Fruit Growers Exchange, who has taken onto his staff a number of M. A. C. men and who has always proved himself a warm friend of our Horts. D. F. Fisher, '12.

BREWER-GARVIN WEDDING.

A wedding of unusual interest to M. A. C. people took place on Saturday, December 6, when Chester L. Brewer, director of athletics, and Miss Edna Murray Garvin were married at the home of the bride in Clark Summit, Pennsylvania. Miss Garvin was for four years an instructor in the household science department at the college, having resigned last summer. During her last year she was associate professor in the department, and was always one of the most liked instructors on the campus. Mr. Brewer came to the college as coach in 1903 and left in 1910 to take a position at the University of Missouri as director of athletics. In 1917 he returned to M. A. C. in the same capacity. The Brewers will be at home at East Lansing after a short trip through the east.

J. W. NICOLSON '15 HONORED.

At the first annual International Grain and Hay Show held in Chicago, Nov. 29, to Dec. 6, in connection with the Livestock Exposition, J. R. Nicolson, '15, was elected secretary of the International Crop Improvement Association. This was the organization meeting of this association, and twelve state organizations and the Canadian Seed Growers Association are the charter members. This association will be behind the movement for the best varieties of certified inspected seed, in which Michigan has made such exceptional strides. The farm crops department at the college, with Mr. Nicolson as extension specialist, has raised the standards in grain way above the average of other states.

In their class for wheat (soft red winter) Michigan growers competed against the entire United States and Canada, including the famous wheat belt states; and Red Rock, the famous variety which was developed and perfected by Prof. Spragg of the farm crops department, was easily the outstanding wheat at the show. Red Rock took first and second places in its class, along with six lower awards. The fact that the first prize on Red Rock was won by an Ohio man only goes to show that other states realize the superior quality of this M. A. C. variety. Rosen Rye, another superior M. A. C. grain of which Prof. Spragg is the fond parent, captured five prizes out of a total of nine awards.

The Michigan Educational Exhibit at the show was the largest and most diversified of any shown, and resulted in favorable comment and advertising for the college. The farm crops department, the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, of which Mr. Nicolson is secretary, and the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, united in preparing the display. A large map of the state, upon which were posted views of the varied farming industries, a mound of selected Petoskey potatoes, large bins of Rosen Rye and Red Rock wheat, and a special display for the Upper Peninsula were features of the state exhibit.

Practically all the Michigan exhibits which were at Chicago will be shown at Farmers' Week at the College, February 2 to 6.

ECKERSALL PICKS HAMMES FOR ALL WESTERN TEAM.

By naming John Hammes, big full-back of the Michigan Aggies, as his choice in the second All-Western team, Walter Eckersall showed that he was not dispensing idle chatter in his praise of the big back after the Wabash game. That he was very favorably impressed with Hammes' ability is a certainty, if the space devoted to the Aggie athlete can be used as an indication.

The habit which Hammes has acquired of hitting the line low and then raising slightly to open his own path was the thing which made the biggest impression on the well-known grid critic. According to Eckersall, this little trick was worth a good many yards to the Aggies in the game which he witnessed.

Hammes' defense style also gained commendation. As a matter of fact, he starred in this branch in every Aggie game, and was really stronger as a stumbling block to ambitious opposing backs than as a ground gainer. He never leaned towards the grand stand style of play, and it is a pleasure to see a player of that caliber picked for an honorary position.

Captain Franson of the Aggies also received a creditable mention, although he did not receive a place in either team. He was compared with Lyman, of Nebraska, one of the strongest tackles of the west.

EIGHTEEN MEN WIN VARSITY MONOGRAM.

The list of men who will be awarded the varsity monogram was announced last week. Eighteen players participated in enough games to win their letters.

The monogram men are as follows: Franson, Ramsey, Vandervoort, Archer, Coryell, Springer, Hammes, Miller, Bos, Bassett, Snider, Noblett, Schwei, Shumway, Leffler, Thompson, Andrews and Van Orden. Hutchings, a backfield man, fell just short of the required four games, and he will be given the sweater without the varsity monogram.

"Brownie" Springer, captain-elect of the Big Green, has played two years on the team. The first was in 1915, his freshman year, and since this was before the three-year ruling was adopted, he still has two years to play. The last season was his second of varsity competition, but the speedy little pilot will in all probability graduate before he gets in his full allowance of time on the team.

ALL FRESH TEAM GIVEN NUMERALS.

Fifteen members of the Michigan Aggie All-Fresh football squad will be awarded 1923 monograms according to the announcement made by Coach Frimodig the latter part of this week. The men included on the list are those who played in the five games which made up the Yearling schedule. They are as follows: Morrison, center; Thorpe, Higgins, and Radewald, tackles; Swanson, Ralston and Watson, tackles; Finley, Robbins, and Stewart, ends; Brady, captain and quarterback; McMillan, Stephens and Ross, halfbacks, and Johnson, fullback.

Beyond a doubt the 1919 season was one of the most successful ever put in by an Aggie All-Fresh team. The schedule was the largest ever arranged for yearlings, and the manner in which the team handled itself in every battle was a source of much pride to the coach who developed it.

Four secondary colleges in the state Hillsdale, Hope, Central Normal and Detroit Junior were victims of the scoring machine, while the Notre Dame Fresh was the only outfit which could successfully combat the Aggie team. Every victory credited to the Yearlings was won by straight football, in which the results of hard training were displayed.

H. H. MUSSELMAN '08 LOANED U. S. FOR ARMY VOCATIONAL WORK.

H. H. Musselman, "Happy," '08, professor of farm mechanics at the college, has been extended a six months' leave of absence. Mr. Musselman has been loaned by the college to organize the auto mechanics course in the army vocational school at Rockford, Illinois. The request to do this work comes to Mr. Musselman as a special honor because of the splendid work which he did along this line with the Student Army Training Corps at M. A. C. last year.

Philip B. Woodworth, '88, who is army vocational director for the north central states, prevailed upon the authorities at the college to loan Mr. Musselman for this important work. He left Tuesday of this week to take up his new duties. Floyd Fogle, who received his degree in '18, will take charge of the farm mechanics department during Mr. Musselman's absence.

NOW WHAT WOULD YOU THINK OF THIS?

Get behind us, Modesty, while we print it.

Fresno, Calif.

Dear Sec.:

As Shakespeare says, "Any old place I hang my hat is home, sweet home to me," or maybe it was Longfellow or St. Vitus. Anyway, someone said it, and so far I second the motion. But that's not the point exactly. What I have taken my pen in hand for is to tell you that the M. A. C. Record is better at trailing a man than Sherlock Holmes in his balmy days. Since leaving the old Red Cedar in '15, I have been Bouncing Some—hence the B. S.—through the three states of Washington, Oregon and California, and the wilds of France, but Old Faithful, better known as the Record, always came in a close second, and believe me it was welcome. Even though broke and forsaken, the Record never failed me, so here, Mac, old boy, is four bucks which I have accumulated after four years of hard labor and warfare.

I notice from your valuable columns that So-and-so has accepted a position as horticulturist or manager or technical expert with Such and Such." Now get me straight, Mac, for I did not accept a position with this organization—neither am I horticulturist nor yet advisory expert. No, I approached the superintendent of the F. C. Forkner Fig Co. and asked him for a job. I got it, and for two months have I worked amidst ten thousand acres of figs. No, it is not the garden of Eden, but I am thinking of flooding the market with choice No. 1 fig leaves next summer, thus being of service to humanity by reducing the high cost of clothing and making my fortune at the same time.

I see that Shorty (E. E.) Alden is with the Eastman Kodak Co. in New York. How these '15 do travel. I just got through chasing him to distant Siberia by letter.

Just keep the Record on my trail and I'll start saving two dollars for next year, though by that time I may be anywhere from Montreal to Zbzyr, Russia. Who knows?

Sincerely and alumnically yours,
M. R. Brundage, '15.

Are you interested in what your friends are doing? Then you may be sure they want to hear about you. Births, deaths, marriages, changes of occupation or address, promotions or special honors about yourself or any M. A. C. people are always of interest and the Record will appreciate the opportunity of disseminating such news to your college friends.

He also sends us a clipping from the Washington Post, which describes a concert given by Franceska Kaspar Lawson, wife of Huron W. Lawson, '95. "She sang near Charleston, S. C." the clipping states, "for the Cro-a-Tan Indians, which was a unique experience. This settlement is now believed to be the famous 'Lost Colony' of Sir Walter Raleigh, and the Indians had never heard a white woman sing before, nor had they ever seen one in evening dress. They sat through the program, which, according to those who knew them well, was a sign of approval, for when they dislike the entertainment they get up and leave the room."

work. He went to the University of Illinois a year ago last July after obtaining his doctor's degree at the University of New Jersey. "Was very sorry to hear of Dr. Snyder's death," he says. "Having deficiency in credits at the time of my entrance at M. A.
C. I found Dr. Snyder a protector in my early life at M. A. C. He made it possible for me, a foreigner, with very little English, and with a deficiency in credits, to make a start as a student.
I do not know whether he was ever sorry for the position he took in my case, but I shall always feel under a deep obligation to Dr. Snyder."

H. J. Buell, 1501 Bellefontaine St., Indianapolis, Indiana, will welcome any of the fellows any time if they will do just one thing—look him up.
