New Plymouth Six Now on Display

This Time He's Setting the Pace for All Three

"LOOK AT ALL THREE!" said Walter P. Chrysler last April. "Look at all three!" he repeats today.

"For a lot of things have happened since the last time you looked!"

Today he announces a brand new Plymouth! It's a Six with Floating Power. A BIG, full-sized Six!

This time it's Plymouth that's "out in front!" Setting the pace. Showing the nation what style can mean . . . what values can be these days.

The new Plymouth has hydraulic four-wheel brakes—so

Free Wheeling can be enjoyed in security. And safety steel bodies—so you ride with peace of mind.

It has big-car roominess . . . big car performance, and yet, because of brilliant engineering, it has amazing economy of gas . . . oil . . . tires . . . upkeep!

It's a solid car—solid-looking, and solidly built. Honest in every part and detail. It was created by hard, earnest effort . . . keen, straight thinking!

We ask you to look at the new Plymouth Six . . . to "Look at All Three," and decide for yourself . . . "Is Plymouth America's next 'Number One' Car?"

FOOTBALL, as of yore, occupies a major place in the alumni spotlight each fall. This is as it should be. No out-of-state publicity could equal the publicity gained for the College when Jim Crowley led his charging Spartans to New York state for their invasion and subsequent conquering of the undefeated Fordham Rams, and the vanquishing of the courageous and stubborn Syracuse Orangemen. It was the first time in the history of the College that a State team had won two successive out-of-state victories. Never in our visits to New York have we experienced the unanimous, whole-hearted good will of so many alumni towards the College as we did at the old grads' open-house on the eve of the Fordham game. More than 100 alumni were eager to learn more about the College, the enrollment, the courses, the faculty... the latest news of undergraduate life. The alumni party at the Vanderbilt hotel will be long remembered.

THEY write about an oft-repeated expression to the effect that education is what one has left after he has forgotten all he learned in college. From the growing movement for alumni education in this country, and the large number of outsiders we have noticed using the facilities of our library lately, it might be inferred that many college graduates have discovered that they haven't enough left—perhaps not enough, in fact, to do a good job of forgetting.

Here is an old man browsing over the Encyclopedia Britannica; here is a white-haired, bewhiskered individual studying the "New Republic"; here is the wife of a college professor going over the index files for materials for her club paper; and down in the periodical room is an adventurous youth looking over an anthropological tour of the southwest, where the earliest evidence of man in America is found.

Some of these people, men especially, are a part of the army of 12,000,000 unemployed. Reading gives them something to pass away the time that might be otherwise wasted.

Although the library, as Librarian Towne points out in this issue, cannot afford a program of alumni reading guidance at this time it can suggest some valuable recreational reading each month through the columns of the RECORD. We have reason to believe that these timely suggestions will spur our alumni into borrowing or procuring books that are given to after-college reading.

WHEN STATE'S HOMECOMERS CAME HOME

Annual Homecoming Memorable Affair for Old Grads

Varsity Alumni Honor Exelby, '12

THOSE persons terming themselves alumni of Michigan State college who have the idea that Homecoming celebrations at their Alma Mater are decaying in spirit and in interest, and as a result make no effort to attend the annual observances, can be counted among those who missed something by not being present to take part in the celebration of the 1932 Homecoming, observed November 4-5.

From the start of the first music at the Sphinx "Homecoming Hop," at the Union on Friday evening, November 4, until a late hour Saturday night when the final blast of the trumpet sounded at the fraternity and sorority house dances, given in honor of returning alumni and guests, the celebration was one grand period of excitement for everyone fortunate enough to be in East Lansing.

"LET'S GIVE A YEA, FROSH"

IN starting the festivities of the Saturday program, Cheerleader Carleton Spencer had the large number of freshmen pulling for John Kobs yearlings in their forenoon game with the freshmen of Western State. By tying the visitors, 13-13, Kobs football proteges gave the alumni visitors some confidence that a few of the holes on next year's varsity will be well plugged.

Coming from behind in the second quarter to score their first touchdown the State freshmen outplayed the Kalamazoo team during the rest of the game.

The traditional decorating of fraternity and sorority houses and the block "S" flags in front of Lansing and East Lansing business houses gave the College city a neat appearance in observance of Homecoming. First prize for house decorations was awarded to the Hesperian society who also won the cup last year. Second place went to Lambda Chi Alpha society and honorable mention was granted the Eunomians and Sigma Alpha Epsilon groups. The Hesperian decorations were built around the "Iron Man" idea. The arrangement included the figure of an iron man shoveling coyotes, representing South Dakota players, from a model gridiron. The trees and the lawn were also decorated to carry out the theme of the day.

Varsity Club Honored Deceased

MOST impressive was the memorial ceremony of the Alumni Varsity club. More than 100 members met at the gymnasium and marched to the club's memorial boulder just inside the stadium grounds. There Del Vandervoort, w'19, of Lansing, acting in the absence of A. L. Bibbins, '15, president, placed a wreath in honor of the departed alumni varsity men. Earl Hotchin, '12, honorary member, of East Lansing, read a short eulogy of the four varsity men who had died during the past year. The group then proceeded to the game and as usual occupied the benches along the sidelines of the field during the afternoon game.

The greeting of old friends, warm hand-claps, and a renewed interest in a Spartan team was noticeable on this sunny afternoon. When Chester L. Brewer, now director of athletics at Missouri and honored guest of the Varsity club, arrived on the scene stadium spectators thought the game was on and Bob Monnett hipping through for a touchdown. Among those first to greet his former coach was Leon C. Exelby, '12, of Britton, who later in the day was given a testimonial banquet at the Union.

Alumni Interest Revived

THE game with the University of South Dakota left nothing to be desired. Alumni and undergraduate spirit had been revived with the team's sensational invasion of the east on the two previous week-ends. Everyone who saw the game could not help but feel that Jim Crowley has built a fighting team and in his training has given his men the little details of the game that make for a smooth working eleven. Read what the New York papers had to say about the 1932 Spartans, on the sport pages of this issue. There you can also read of the details of the Homecoming game.

Spectators, at any game where the M. S. C. military band performs, are well entertained between halves. The antics of the drum major in tossing his baton over the goal posts, his leading of the dizzy moving zig-zag letters and the forming of the block "S" prior to the playing of Alma Mater, ruled the attention all during the rest period.

Brewer Varsity Club Speaker

FOLLOWING the game, the Union building was indeed a busy place Saturday evening. More than 150 members of the alumni varsity club and guests met at the testimonial dinner honoring Leon C. Exelby, '12, all-western fullback here in 1910.

"Intercollegiate athletics in general, football in particular, are on a much higher plane than they were 30 years ago but there was something about the 'good old days' that warms the hearts of those who can remember them," said Chester L. Brewer, the main speaker of the evening. He then recalled many chapters of the early history of State athletics when he was director of athletics and jack-of-all trades in the Spartan camp. He revealed briefly the growth of athletics at the College, unveiling many interesting incidents to the Homecoming athletes of the past and present.

ALUMNI REUNION AT IOWA CTY

THIS summer there was a real reunion of former Michigan State folks when George Gauthier and his family stopped enroute to the Olympics. The Record is indebted to Floyd Nagler for the above picture who identifies the group as: Top row—Jack Gauthier; Floyd Nagler, '14; Mrs. Maude Nason Powell, '13; Ralph W. Powell, '11; Mrs. Evelyn Harbottle Gauthier, '15; George Gauthier, '14; Mrs. Alleda Zwickey Mather, '14; Anders Mather, (Iowa '11). Bottom row—Mrs. Marion Truax Nagler (Skidmore, '21); Donald Nagler, Dick Gauthier, Robert Nagler.

Mr. Brewer said he believed the present day football game to be the best of all time. He praised it as a builder of men. He said that Michigan State college had risen to a great height in national college circles and that it is the well developed program in all departments that has accomplished it.

"You men here in Lansing and East Lansing may not realize with what high regard you are held in the country," he said. "I hear your praises sung almost every day. I am proud that I had my start on this campus. Those were the happiest days of my life."

Exelby, presented with a bronze plaque which designated him for distinguished service to his Alma Mater, recalled many incidents during his college days.

A. D. Vandervoort, w'19, vice president, of the club, presided in the absence of A. L. Bibbins, '15, president, who was unable to attend because of illness. President R. S. Shaw welcomed the old athletes and Jim Crowley, football coach, introduced members of the team. C. V. Ballard, '12, was toastmaster.

One of the features of the banquet was a skit that portrayed a room scene in old "Bill's hall" in 1911. Characters were H. Lee Bancroft, '12, James Hays, '11, H. E. Dennison, '13, and Ballard.

Campus Given New Interest In Politics

CAMPUS political interest was much more keenly felt this year than ever before. The intense excitement shown by the outside world was apparently communicated to the students, resulting in a small fever of discussions, dissensions, and decisions.

Two political clubs—the Young Republicans and the Student Democratic club—were formed here in the later weeks of October. Several meetings of each were held, with officers being elected and speakers heard. Badges of partizanship were seen in great numbers on lapels—a small white elephant for Hoover voters, a blue button for Roosevelt supporters, and a red button for Thomas adherents. The rise in Democratic and Socialist strength was especially noticeable, though the prevailing sentiment was plainly Republican.

In its edition a few days before election, the State News carried three articles written by students: "Why I Shall Vote for Hoover," "Why I Shall Vote for Roosevelt," and "Why I Shall Vote for Thomas." Arguments for the respective candidates were put forth very forcibly.

A large percentage of the students were able to vote. Absent voter's ballots were procurable at the Union desk, and the many Lansing and East Lansing students cast their votes personally.

This local election interest was

P. K. Fu, '14, Writes News From China

Honglok, Canton, China,
Sept. 29, 1932

Dear Editor:

I thank you very much for your good letter of July 29. It made me homesick for the old Alma Mater and aching to see the old boys there again. Yes, gold is high and we earn our money in silver but I have been doing this for several years (sending a five bugs each year) and seem to be accustomed to it. Being so far away it is a great pleasure to learn of M. S. C. once in a while and this is worth more than twenty-five dollars in silver.

Yes, Ming S. Lowe, '15, had an awfully bad time in Shanghai but now I learn that he and family are well situated in Teintsin and are enjoying the cooler climate up there and we correspond once a while.

I wish someday I have the chance to attend one of those great M. S. C. football games. I was expecting to come to the Chicago Fair next year, but the silk industry has gone bad and I don't think my expectation will be able to come true, but may yet have a chance in the near future.

Recently, I got letters from some old M. S. C. college mates and certainly it's good to learn of them.

Sometime ago, people here try to form an M. S. C. association, but the few graduates here are so scattered about that the idea had to be dropped. There are two M. S. C. men in Canton, and about a similar number in Shanghai, a few more farther up north and so on so you see it's very hard to organize such a thing with members spreading all over the country.

I am now head of the department of sericulture, Lingnan university, and you can reach me in this address. But I also have charge of the Provincial Bureau for the Improvement of Sericulture and the Provincial Bureau of Raw Silk testing and these make me jump quite a bit each day. I enjoy the work, but still I like farming best.

Everything seems to be O. K. here except a bit tight with money, but this is a world wide symptom and can't kick much about it.

In case you come to this part of the world please drop in and I hope to be able to do you something. I close with best regards,

Yours sincerely,
P. K. FU, '14.

paralleled by the activity in colleges all over the country. Straw votes were held in many where the prevailing sentiment was in doubt. The vote from educational institutions undoubtedly contributed to the record-breaking ballot.

The Alumni Library

THE Michigan State college library cannot afford a program of alumni reading guidance at this time, although several new experiments in recreational reading on the Campus have been initiated since the opening of the fall term.

Each month the College library can undertake to suggest three or four good books to our alumni, books worth buying and owning or probably obtainable in any local public library of average size.

The college library does not loan books to individuals but will loan to other libraries for individuals. In this way the books on the following list might be borrowed. It was not possible to buy additional copies, and if requests prove too numerous we shall have to disappoint all those who make them.

W. B. KERSHAW, '31

At any rate, here is our first suggested list. The descriptive notes were written by W. B. Kershaw, '31, and a graduate of the Columbia university school of library service. Kershaw has assumed the duties of evening reference librarian for the fall, winter and spring terms, while working for his master's degree.

Cuthbertson, George A., Freshwater. N. Y., Macmillan, 1932. $7.50.

A fascinating and romantic tale, of the growth of shipping on the Great Lakes. We see the Indian canoes, the sailing vessels and finally the development of great steamships owned by large corporations, which transport millions of tons annually. Important historical events centering in the Great Lakes region add color and action to the story. There are numerous interesting plates, many of them by the author.

Inmate-Ward 8. Behind the door of delusion. N. Y., Macmillan, 1932. $2.00.

A trained newspaper man, placed in a state hospital for mental disorders, has recorded in a most vivid manner life where delusion rules. The tragedy, humor and routine within a strange world produces an entirely readable book.

Keller, Albert Galloway. Man's rough road. N. Y., Stokes, 1932. $3.00.

Man has gone through a definite process of evolution, due to his ability to think and to adjust himself to life's environment. The author traces society's customs and systems, giving reasons for their existence and attempts to predict future developments. The style is clear cut and direct, as well as humorous. The point of view is derived largely from the works of the late Professor William Graham Sumner of Yale.

Kipling, Rudyard. Limits and renewals. N. Y., Doubleday, 1932. $2.50.

Although not Kipling at his best, this group of poems and short stories, not previously printed in book form, makes enjoyable reading. The charming, clever and imaginative style holds one's interest throughout.

Jackson E. Towne,
Librarian.

Mother Bright Dies

MANY old grads who were in College from 1907 to 1917 and who enjoyed the good food prepared in Club G under old Williams hall will be sorry to learn of the death (November 3) of Mrs. Lillian "Mother" Bright at her home, 417 East Grand River avenue, East Lansing.

Mother Bright, as she was commonly called, had a place in the hearts of many generations of students. When asked to make a few comments about her passing, E. C. Mandenburg, '15, of the State department of agriculture, said: "I think it was Art Sargeant, '10, who was the first student to call her 'Mother' Bright. She came to Club G in 1907 succeeding Mrs. Farleman, who took over Club D under Wells hall.

Club G was managed by the Columbian Literary society (now Sigma Alpha Epsilon) until the R. O. T. C. units came to the Campus in 1917. Then they removed the partitions of the three clubs in Williams hall and made one large boarding club, with Mother Bright serving as one of the assistants in the kitchen. A little later when Williams hall burned, the Columbians built their new home and Mother Bright took charge of their dining room.

"While Mother was on the Campus, she frequently made trips in the summer time to cook at the forestry camp. I think it was in 1919 that Mother decided to leave the Columbian house and move to Pontiac. She was away from the Campus but returned often to visit with old friends. Last year she came back to East Lansing to take charge of the kitchen for the new Delta Sigma Phi house. This year, however, she was running her own house on Grand River avenue."

Mrs. Bright is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Bertram G. Edgerton (Kathryn Bright, '20), two grandchildren, three brothers and three sisters.

The graduate student section of the English department is gradually increasing from year to year, according to an announcement. This year students have come here from Albion, Toledo, and Lincoln university at Jefferson City, Missouri.

Alumnae League Active

OFFICERS of the Lansing chapter of the Michigan State College Alumnae league held their first executive meeting at the Union Bldg. September 28 when extensive plans for the ensuing year were discussed. Regular meetings were scheduled for the last Wednesday evening of each month, according to Mrs. S. F. Edwards, (Carolyn Ellsworth, w'08), president of the League.

On October 26 the League held a Hallowe'en masquerade party with numerous prizes being offered for best make-ups. Refreshments, games and stunts gave those attending an enjoyable evening.

Tentative plans have been made for an Olympic sports evening at which time Ralph Young, director of athletics, will tell of his California visit last summer and describe in detail the international contests. Husbands and friends of the active members will be invited guests.

MRS. S. F. EDWARDS

The annual spring luncheon, flower show and bridge party will be held as usual in May.

In addition to the meetings planned for all members of the League, members of the board discuss plans frequently with the president at her home at 801 West Ionia street, Lansing.

Other officers of the executive board, in addition to the president, are as follows:

Miss Mildred Davis, w'12, first vice-president, 118 West Maple street, phone 52065.

Mrs. Frank Schram (Norma Simons, w'23), second vice president, 309 South Logan street, phone 27526.

Mrs. Forest Musselman (Marion Grettenberger, '18), recording secretary, 140 Oakhill, East Lansing, phone 21835.

Mrs. Barney C. Cox (Gladys Wilford, '26), treasurer, 305 South Pennsylvania avenue, phone 58553.

Miss Esther Allen, '19, corresponding secretary, Sparrow hospital, phone 3175.

Miss Beulah Isles, '27, program chairman, City Library, phone 24323.

Judge Leland W. Carr of Ingham circuit court, who conducted a searching investigation of affairs of this college in the form of a one-man grand jury inquiry, handed down an opinion November 2 to the effect that he had found no violations of statutes in the alleged activities of college officials which formed the basis for the investigation.

James H. Crowley, head football coach, announces that State can beat any team wearing red shirts. He bases this statement on Spartan victories over Mississippi A. and M., Colgate, and recently Fordham. When asked about the Colgate win in 1929, Crowley smiled and said, "We played on a muddy field that day and after the first play you couldn't tell whether Colgate was wearing maroon or field gray. My boys have to see red to win."

Several class elections were held this fall to fill office vacancies. In the senior class, Corrine Goulet, Detroit, won the office of senior secretary. In the junior class Marion Lewis, Detroit, became vice-president, and Stuart McCallum, Detroit, treasurer. Sophomores elected Robert Armstrong, Benton Harbor, to fill the office of student council representative.

In the annual, hotly-contested elections for corps sponsors, the results were as expected—some girls won and some girls lost. In this case Florence Hess, St. Louis, defeated Corrine Goulet, Detroit, for the position of honorary corps "colonel"; Katherine McCutcheon, Detroit, won over Beverly Meehan, Lansing, for cavalry sponsor; Elizabeth Shigley, Lansing, beat Marion Paddock, Cheboygan, for infantry sponsor; Jane Stockton, Lansing, defeated Vivian Sherman, Coldwater, for coast artillery sponsor; and Dorothy Whitman, Lansing, was named sponsor for the band. The co-eds were installed with the usual colorful ceremonies.

A new State News feature is "Willie", who writes long letters home which somehow get into the columns of the paper. Purporting to be the expressions of a very innocent and wondering transplanted farmer boy, the letters are short on spelling, punctuation, and paragraphing, but long on humor.

"CLOSE BESIDE THE

One barometer of economic conditions which has been neglected by the great economists as an indicator of business is the Michigan State short course, recently said R. W. Tenny, '19, its director. Enrollment in short courses has always shown a definite increase in periods of greatest economic stress and a corresponding decline as business affairs improved. A big enrollment is expected this year, by the way.

Cavalry students who are thrown from their mounts sign the "Book," a large register which records the date of the fall and the excuse given for it. Several have already put their names down this year, and three minor accidents have taken place—a dislocated elbow, an injured wrist, and a bruised head. Foreible dismountings are not uncommon in the cavalry, but serious injuries are few.

Campus organizations are beginning their year's activities with announcements of membership drives, elections of officers, and program plans. Groups which have started to stir include the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., the International Relations club, the music honoraries, Mu Phi Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Iota, Green Splash, the Student Grange, Sphinx, and many technical honoraries and clubs.

In the recent military appointments of cadet officers, Horton W. Stickle, Gardner, Mass., was named cadet colonel. His two lieutenants colonels are Burl D. Huber, St. Louis, and Frank J. Emerick, Detroit. Heading the various units in their positions as cadet majors are Robert P. Wilson, Washington, D. C., cavalry; James K. O'Dell, East Lansing, infantry; and Walker G. Walker, Jackson, coast artillery. All the men are seniors.

A new service will be offered by the M. S. C. library when balanced book collections are built up for the various college fields. Bibliographies of books containing information about any divisional work of any division will be made up and sent out to the various departments for their convenience.

Recently were announced the list of chairmen of committees for the 1933 J-Hop, annual big gun of the winter social season. They are: for arrangements, Carl Mitchell, Benton Harbor; for decorations, Jack Tichnor, Battle Creek; for favors, Otto Pongrace, Grosse Pointe; for finance, Stuart McCallum, Detroit; for music, Edward Krammer, Detroit; for programs and invitations, Eldon Rolfe, Niles; for publicity, Max Andrews, East Lansing; for reception, Robert Nelson, Traverse City. Thirty-two other members of the class of '34 were named on the various committees.

Figures recently released by the College swimming department indicate that over thirty per cent of the freshmen who have entered Michigan State during the past five years could not swim a stroke. Forty per cent of the ag freshmen knew nothing of the art, and liberal arts frosh followed with thirty-two per cent, engineering with twenty-nine per cent, and applied science, with the smallest percentage—twenty-three. One-fifth of the 1932 freshmen were not able to swim.

Dramatic interest is high on the Campus. With the production of the advanced dramatics class "Holiday", on November 11, a season was opened which will probably close with "Death Takes a Holiday", another advanced dramatics class presentation, sometime in December. Between these two dates the Seven-Arts club will offer A. A. Milne's comedy, "The Truth About Blayds," in late November or early December. "Holiday" was sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic society. It is believed that this is the first time that three full-length plays will have been presented in a single term.

Four members of the college faculty are serving on the staff of the Temple House Cultural Institute of Lansing. They are Professor W. W. Johnston of the English department, Professor E. L. Austin of the education department, and Professor E. S. King and A. B. Nickle of the speech department.

WINDING CEDAR"

Class rush activities this year were only slightly attended by either spectators or participants. About 125 freshmen and 100 sophomores came out. In a cold driving rain which soon drove away the little crowd which gathered, the classes competed in contests—cageball, tug o' war, greased pig, obstacle, bicycle, and relay races. The freshmen carried the day with a score of 65-45. There was no "black Friday", class kidnapping, or "Poster Night".

Gitta Gradova, called the foremost woman pianist, came to East Lansing Thursday, November 10, with the first performance on the Michigan State College concert course. A large crowd of students heard this artist. December 14 is to be the date of the faculty concert, which will feature Fred Patton, newly appointed head of the voice department, Lewis Richards, Michael Press, and Alexander Schuster.

The following forestry graduates of the College have been taken into the national professional forestry organization, the Society of American Foresters, as junior members: Ronald L. Bird, '27; Louis C. Hermel, '30; Clayton C. Jobbet '30; Russell O'Neil, '23; Robert O. Sowash, '31; Morrice A. Huberman, '32; Earl C. Bachman, '25. Daniel DenUyl, '22, was advanced from the grade of junior member to senior membership in the same organization.

The following Michigan State foresters were at the Land Utilization conference held in Munising, Michigan, October 7, 8, and 9: E. C. DeGraaf, '32; J. G. Harris, '29; John Krober, '28; George Ferrari, '30; R. F. Kroodsmas, '13; P. W. Robbins, '27; Byron Groesbeck, '31; H. D. Switzer, '29; A. C. Morley, '30; E. W. Tinker, '13; H. Basil Wales, '11; and P. A. Herbert, head of the forestry department at M. S. C.

Following the tradition set by last year's Wolverine, this year's annual will continue the practice of making a "prominent Spartan" section. Four men and four women will be chosen from a selected senior list of twenty-one.

The thirteenth annual "football bust" sponsored by the Central Michigan Alumni club will be held at the Union building, Saturday, December 10, according to Earl Hotchin, '12, president. Committees have been appointed by B. R. Proulx, '22, general chairman, and ticket sales are in charge of members of the Lansing Junior Chamber of Commerce. Dick Remington, Detroit sports writer who selects the official all-state high school teams, will be present and make his award to the 1932 heroes.

The crying need for the College is a larger loan fund for needy students. The demand this year, according to Jacob Schepers, College treasurer, far exceeds the available cash for loans.

Eighteen grades of "WA" have been given out since the beginning of the term, according to J. W. Steward, attendance officer. Under the new cut system, unexcused absences doubling the number of credit hours forcibly removes him from it. This is the grade of "WA," which is marked down as meaning the same as an "F."

Senior class appointments were recently announced by William Vondette, Saginaw, class president. The chairmen of the various committees are as follows: Commencement, Andrew McElroy, East Lansing; social, Charles Fawcett, Benton Harbor; athletics, Francis Meiers, Muskegon; men, John Larraway, New York city; women, Dorothy Cummings, Coldwater; publicity, Clarence Van Lopik, Grand Haven; cap and gown, Robert Porter, Detroit; finance, George Thomas, Detroit; announcements and invitations, Richard Elder, Ann Arbor; water carnival, Richard MacDonald, Dearborn. Forty other seniors filled up the remainder of the groups.

Technical honoraries which have been initiating during the past month include Phi Lambda Tau, engineering society, Alpha Zeta, agriculture, Mu Phi Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Iota, music and Scabbard and Blade, military.

A memorial scholarship fund has been established for Mary A. Hendrick, late professor of history at Michigan State, by the Lansing branch of the American Association of University Women. The fund is to be used to help girls graduating from Lansing or East Lansing high schools to attend college.

In a newspaper statement, Professor P. A. Herbert, head of the college forestry department, spiked the idea that synthetic lumber produced from material such as corn stalks would ever replace real lumber. "Synthetic lumber may be produced in time," he said, "but when it does it will come from trees, because they can be grown much more cheaply than anything else."

A humorous feature of the co-ed habit of keeping small animals made of porcelain, china, or other materials around their rooms, was the Spartan Women's League Pet show. Staged in the old armory, it was the occasion for much mirth and discussion over the various points of the "pets."

Dull, drear November is—Here! beginning that way again. Somehow this private paragraph always degenerates into an animated weather report. But perhaps you are glad to know whether the Campus is wet or dry, hot or cold, green or bare. Just now it is wet, cold and bare. The first snow fell three days ago. It gets dark about five-thirty, and the girls playing soccer become mere flashing legs and frantic cries in the gloom, while the football men knock off before-time and lights glow early, increasing the electric bill. Bumming is better. Several large police dogs run about the Campus, barking at the squirrels, who disdain them. The canoes have all gone into winter quarters—as well as some of the cars—fur coats appear, the rich sport gloves and scarves. But Parties! Parties! Parties! The voice of the trumpet is heard in the land, along with the whine of the saxophone, the boom of the drums, and the plunk of the viol. I'm so sad. My girl has gone and left me. Say it isn't so. Love me, love me tonight. No more money in the bank, plink, plink. Vodeodo. Hotcha, hotcha. Loud, sweet music in the air above—and in the earth below.—O. L. B.

Crush Fordham and Syracuse on Eastern Invasion

JAMES H. CROWLEY
Head Football Coach

WE HAVE finished another football season, one I am happy to say, that has brought me much joy and personal satisfaction. Why? Largely because I saw a team arise from defeat, a crushing 26 to 0 reverse at the hands of Michigan, when they played one of their best games in their Conference Championship march, raise its head and carry on in a victorious manner. If football does nothing else, it chastens the spirit with the fire of defeat and teaches that it takes more than one knockdown to keep a good man down.

I am very happy over the turn of events. We showed to advantage in defeating a very clever Grinnell college team 27 to 6, overcome a stubborn Illinois Wesleyan eleven, 27 to 0, and then move forward to defeat Fordham university, 19 to 13, humble Syracuse, 27 to 13, satisfy the old grads at Homecoming by trimming South Dakota, 20 to 6, and closing the season by outclassing the University of Detroit 7 to 0.

FOOTBALL HAS EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

WHEN we started out this fall our students, townspeople and alumni believed that we had a great football machine. So did I, but experience had taught me not to expect to build my football hopes too high. Just when you get to the point of patting yourself on the back in this old game of football, you need not be surprised to suffer an embarrassing fall. Michigan whipped us with a grand team. I said at the time that the Wolverines were the best looking Maize and Blue eleven that I had ever seen and other members of the coaching staff agreed. And you only have to look at Michigan's record to see how close we came to being correct. But I still think that Michigan should not have rolled up 26 points. We are much better than that. We have a very good team, had one the day at Ann Arbor but just couldn't get organized.

Grinnell showed us something. The Missouri Valley Conference team gave us a real workout. I was so much impressed with the clean, hard and clever brand of football supplied by this team that I immediately asked that Grinnell be back on our schedule next season, possibly for the opening game. Alma has bowed to us twice now by large scores in the season's inaugural and I would like to have stiffer competition. Maybe Grinnell will be too much for us next year, seeing that we are losing the heart of our team by graduation, but I hardly think so. Anyway, when you see the result of the Grinnell game next year it may be taken as an indication of what we will do during the rest of the season.

KIRCHER DIRECTS TEAM

A DETERMINED drive in the first period just about insured our victory in that game. I had named Alton Kircher, a left-handed junior from Gladstone who is this year's co-captain of basketball and for two years a regular outfielder on the baseball team, as quarterback during the week. I was interested in his work in this game. He showed me something by whipping his team into line for a pair of touchdowns and points after touchdown for a 14 to 0 lead in the initial period.

The little U. P. fellow, he weighs under 160 pounds, whipped forward passes with that left hand of his like a baseball pitcher. A heave set the stage for a touchdown, Monnett getting the ball on the four-yard line and Eliowitz going across. The 21 to 0 lead at the half seemed to satisfy the boys for they let down in the third period and never really got going again until Grinnell opened a lateral passing attack that produced a touchdown. Aroused, our boys went back into gear and scored again in the fourth period.

Illinois Wesleyan, this year's champion of the Little Nineteen in Illinois, had fallen to us the year before rather handily and it was difficult to arouse enthusiasm for the game. I didn't care to, particularly, for we had a difficult three weeks' stretch in front of us, starting with Fordham. We found the Wesleyan team very strong defensively. It could do but little in moving the ball against us but we had to really stretch to get anywhere ourselves. We produced four touchdowns again, winning 27 to 0. I was worried at the half as we had only a 7 to 0 lead, but it was just what the team needed. We scored another marker in the third period and polished off by punching over two more in the last quarter when the sturdy Wesleyan line began to weaken under the continued assault.

FORDHAM VICTORY A GREAT THRILL

THEN we were ready for Fordham. It wasn't a bright prospect. Fordham had rolled over all opposition, had two teams that were so nearly equal that there was no choice between them and it looked like a sad Saturday for us. At least, everyone in East Lansing (save a few like Mr. Young who will never believe we are licked until the last gun is shot), thought we were in for a royal trimming. Fordham was being given three touchdowns. Mike Casteel, our scout, brought back the dope and between us we reached the conclusion that we not only had a good chance of holding Fordham, but of beating them.

We shaped our attack accordingly, and here I want to say that Mike Casteel is the best scout in the business. He did not miss a thing. Everything worked out just as he said it would. There weren't many down at the railroad station to see us off for New York (seven by actual count) but when our Pullmans rolled in Monday morning there was a cheering mob awaiting us. Here's a little secret, that I hope doesn't get back to the boys. They were fighting mad over the way the students and alumni had apparently forgotten them. And they went out there to lick Fordham just for their own satisfaction. Well, they did it. And on arriving home, the boys were still a little put out with their fellow students, but they went around wearing satisfied grins. They showed 'em!

The 19 to 13 victory at Fordham gave me a great thrill, naturally. The winning was one thing—but it was the indomitable spirit that refused to be quenched that impressed all who sat on the sidelines. That slashing run for 80 yards and a touchdown on the first play of the game was the first thrill. How Monnett drove! Then Fordham came right back, crushing, smashing, down the field to score and take the lead, 7 to 6. That's how it stood at the half and through the third quarter.

"Red" wore old "27" for the last time against the U. of D. last week. Always in the game, always in the play, he retained his position all season.

The boys were fighting like mad men, refusing to concede a thing. Fordham kept alternating teams on us, starting the first, substituting the second and then sending back the first. But man power could not whip State that day. Will power did win for those Spartans.

Fordham made a mistake shortly after the third period opened and the boys cashed in. Captain Eliowitz intercepted a forward pass and ran about 70 yards for a touchdown. That hurt Fordham and the game was scarcely started again before McNutt, our big and fast fullback, caught a lateral from Eliowitz and raced 63 yards to score. We had a lead, 19 to 7. I could settle back then and enjoy what was going on out there. Such blocking as was given the ball carriers. It was 11 men, 10 of them playing for the other fellow, not himself. Fordham scored again, throwing wild passes and tried to produce another touchdown by the same methods. This time Meiers intercepted a heave and we had the ball on the Rams' seven-yard line when

"BUD" MEIERS, Center

Francis came to State as a backfield man from Muskegon. He filled the center gap when Harold Smead was injured and this year was used at end as well.

the game ended, mighty close to another touchdown.

SPARTANS GET REVENGE AT SYRACUSE

ALL WE had to do the next week was to get revenge against Syracuse. They had defeated us the year previous at Homecoming, 15 to 10. We took a battering in the Fordham game but came through in fair shape. The boys were very tired, however, and were a real problem for the coaches. We had to tell them how pleased we were over the victory, prepare them for a stiff game and yet not work them too much. The mere fact that Syracuse had won from us the previous year served as a life saver. State wanted revenge and got it in the shape of a 27-13 victory.

Syracuse had a very good team of sophomores on the field. Fortunately, however, we never really let Bill Orange get us on the run. We climbed on top and were able to stay there, leading 27 to 6 at one stage. We had only a 7 to 0 lead at the halftime, still leaving a ball game in the last half. The team was not quite up to the standard of the Saturday previous. This was too much to expect, anyway, so we were not disappointed. Instead, we were pleased with the outcome. The line played a steady game again and our backfield was just unbeatable. Kircher proved to me that he was the real answer to our quarterback problems.

Our relations with Syracuse have always been very pleasant. I want to state here that the Orange eleven is as well coached, as spirited and clean-playing as any I have ever seen and the boys back me up in this statement. We have a great deal of respect for Syracuse. I hope to have the Orange on the schedule for next year at East Lansing, perhaps for Homecoming, and take a tip from me—see that game. You won't be disappointed over the article of football, I feel sure.

SUCCESSFUL HOMECOMING FOR ALUMNI THEN Homecoming.

THEN Homecoming. We weren't very much worried over South Dakota but feared that our squad would be suffering from a terrific let-down after two hard games. We didn't care to push the boys hard. In fact, this season has been an easy one for the players from a practice standpoint. Seven of the regulars are seniors and know the game pretty well. We worked easily and produced a 20 to 6 victory. An epidemic of fumbles (seven of them, I think there were) sort of spoiled our attack. We could have won by 40 points if we had not fumbled. But the old grads were happy with the victory just the same.

The night of the game the squad and coaches attended the Alumni Varsity club session at the Union where L. C. Exelby was given the greatest honor that can be bestowed on a Michigan State athlete—that of distinguished service. A bronze plaque suitably engraved, told of Mr. Exelby's services. We were very much impressed. To us of the younger generation it was very interesting to hear Mr. Brewer, former director of athletics, tell of the hardship and the joys of those pioneering days of State athletics. We are indeed fortunate.

DETROIT VICTORY ENDS SEASON

AFTER a week's rest, during which time the snow was so deep we could not use the stadium grounds, we met our old rivals the Titans from the University of Detroit. I told Gus Dorais that we were going to wear white jerseys so that left the Detroit boys with only their red sweaters for the game. I was quite sure that Abe, Bob and Big Mac would go strong if the Titans appeared in red. And what a thrill the coaches and 12,000 fans had when Bernard McNutt, fullback, ran 34 yards for a touchdown before the game was five minutes old, and Bob Monnett kicked the extra point. They were the only points scored in the game but there was plenty of football until the last minute of play.

Bob Monnett and Abe Eliowitz, with five other veterans playing their last game, ripped through the Detroit line for heavy gains, but neither one could cross the goal line. In the second half we rammed the ball down to Detroit's 4-yard line, but the Titans made a great stand and held our ball-carriers on the one yard line for four downs.

A bright sun early in the game made the frosty turf very treacherous. It was hard to sweep the ends so we hammered away at the Titans line. With Kircher and Monnett playing mostly a defensive game Eliowitz and McNutt found the holes for consistent gains. I was surprised to find that our boys had rolled up the amazing total of 324 yards from scrimmage to Detroit's 180, and made 14 first downs to the Titan's 7.

Detroit filled the air with passes, attempting 26 during the afternoon but completing only 7. We tried but seven and completed 3. The Detroit boys tried desperately to connect with a pass for a score, but the Titan receivers were well covered or muffed one after another.

Following the U. of D. game the coaches and squad were dinner guests of a group of Lansing business men. I told some of the fans and alumni that night that in all my years of coaching I had never run across a finer pair of football players and men than Abe Eliowitz and Bob Monnett, our co-captains this year. They wanted to win this last game before ringing down the curtain on their inter-collegiate football careers. I was confident they would give everything because they are two of the most unselfish, loyal, hardworking boys I have ever had the pleasure to work with. In all their games they worked for each other, the team and the school. They played hard and fair. They are real men.

SPARTAN CLUBS

NEW YORK CITY ENTERTAINS

MORE than 100 enthusiastic grads and former students of New York held an open-house at the Vanderbilt hotel on the eve of the Fordham game, October 21.

No banquet, no speeches, no collection . . . an ideal evening for reminiscing.

We enjoyed hearing Jim Crowley on the radio from the Paramount theater and then later to have him with us in person. He made a great hit with us in New York and that victory over Fordham upset all the sports dopsters on Manhattan. It seemed mighty good to have a dozen or so visitors with us from the old College and I'm sure our folks have more interest in their Alma Mater than ever before.

It was impossible to secure a complete registration but among those present at the open-house and game were the following:

H. E. Aldrich, '14; A. D. Badour, '12; L. S. Baker, '29; A. L. Bibbins, '15; R. H. Boyle, '24, and wife; Prof. W. L.

RALPH H. BRUNETTE, Tackle

ALUMNI MEET AT SYRACUSE

IN SPITE of the cold, heavy, driving rain more than 60 alumni and their friends used the Syracuse game on October 29 as an occasion to meet and greet again old chums of college days.

Through the courtesy of "Hank" Adams and other resident alumni in Syracuse an open-house was held at the Hotel Syracuse on the eve of the game and a luncheon at Slocum hall on the Syracuse campus Saturday noon. Delegations drove from Ithaca, Buffalo, Rochester and other parts of western New York to see the Spartans seek revenge for their 1931 defeat at the hands of the Orangemen.

Among those attending the luncheon and the game were the following:

CANTICLE OF PRAISE MEMORIAL SERVICE

THE annual memorial service for Michigan State's war dead, called "The Canticle of Praise," was given in the Armory on Sunday, November 13. More than four hundred people took part in what is coming to be one of the most elaborate and colorful campus ceremonies. Singing, dramatic reading, and orchestral work were presented by such organizations as the M. S. C. glee clubs, the M. S. C. military band, the college chorus, and the Lansing Orpheus club. Col. Dorsey R. Rodney of the military department read the roll call of our "Glorious Dead" while cadets of the R. O. T. C. stood guard at the cenotaph in the center of the riding hall. Members of the speech department read Witter Bynner's poem, "A Canticle of Praise" aloud.

Thomas J. Arrigo, '21, and wife; Hugh P. Baker, '01, and wife; E. W. Baldwin, '11; Earle G. Baxter, '19; A. L. Bibbins, '15; Ray F. Bower, '29; G. V. Branch, '12, and wife; John T. Bregger, '17, and wife; Calvin A. Brown, '23, and wife; S. J. Brownell, '16, and wife; Miles Casteel; Seymour K. Fowler; P. Eduard Geldhof, '14; John H. Hammes, '20; J. A. Hannah, '23; John H. Hawkins, '29; H. V. Hoffman, '20, and wife; George E. Julian, '15; L. D. Kurtz, '20, and wife; H. Elton Moore, '30; Dr. E. E. Redfern, '20, and wife; William M. Rider, '08; C. N. Silcox, '20, and wife; L. C. Stegeman, '28, and wife; Glen O. Stewart, '17; E. H. Walker, '18, and wife; Norma Vedder Walter, '10, and husband; Carl L. Warren, '20, and wife.

SAGINAW CLUB ELECTS

THE Saginaw alumni club at its meeting on October 21 elected officers for the coming year. They are:

Fred G. Ricker, '16, president; Philip D. Prentice, '23, vice president; and Mrs. Frank Niederstadt (Bonnie Jean Hill, '25) secretary-treasurer. The directors include the above and Norman M. Spencer, '14, Mrs. Karl Phelps, '25, Fred Pierce, '28 and Elmer C. Geyer, '13.

The Saginaw club has enjoyed working on the alumni undergraduate scholarship selections and assures you that we are ready to follow your suggestions for this year.

Jim Crowley came through splendidly this year and we are all pulling for him strong up here.

—E. C. Geyer, '13.

Past President.

WASHINGTON D. C. CLUB

UTILIZING the occasion of the annual Land Grant College meeting this month the alumni of Washington, D. C., honored President R. S. Shaw and a host of visitors to the Capitol city. The luncheon was held Tuesday noon, November 15, at the Hotel Harrington. More than fifty alumni, including many delegates to the convention, were greatly pleased to hear President Shaw discuss college problems, according to a recent note from Florence Hall, '09, president of the Washington M. S. C. Alumni club.

Michael Press and Zinovy Kogan have been the subjects of recent features in the State News. These two members of the music department, both Russians, were in their native country when the Bolshevik insurrection broke out. Their stories, full of hair-breadth escapes and extreme hardship, showed that the life of a musician is not tea and roses.

Schooling For Jobs

THE Harvard Business school which has enrolled five Michigan State men in recent years, will start January 30 and continue to August 16, 1933. It is designed to meet the needs of college men graduating at midyears with a business career in mind but no present position in view, and of those recent college graduates who have not yet secured permanent positions.

Students who attend the session will have the same classroom instructions under the same faculty as the regular first-year class. They will be entitled to full academic credit, thus enabling them to enter the second-year class next fall. The extra session is open to college graduates and to those who have had executive experience in business.

Three seniors, Charles Fawcett, captain of the baseball team, Edwin Bath, captain of the track team and president of the Varsity club, and Richard MacDonald, president of the Union board, were recently initiated into Excalibur, senior men's honorary.

IN MEMORIAM

LEO R. HIMMELBERGER, 1912

DR. LEO R. HIMMELBERGER, bacteriologist at Hurley hospital, Flint, and well known on the Campus, died suddenly at his home on September 25.

He was assistant in the laboratory of bacteriology doing experiment station work for the College for a number of years after graduation and worked for a time at the University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Dr. Himmelberger was widely known to the medical profession of Michigan through his long work in the hospital laboratory. He was largely instrumental in the establishment of the curriculum in medical biology at this institution and since the establishment of the course has maintained a deep and helpful interest in the program. He received his degree of Doctor of Veterinary medicine here in 1914.

Besides the widow, formerly Cora Oberdorffer, '12, and two sons, William L. and Richard J., he leaves his father John Himmelberger, two sisters, Mrs. L. J. Currie and Mrs. Roy Hardy, and two brothers, E. J. and W. H. Himmelberger, of Lansing.

ALEXANDER MOORE, 1889

ALEXANDER MOORE, '89, prominent lawyer and businessman, died at his Port Huron residence September 5 after an illness of several months. He had lived in Port Huron 54 years and had served as prosecuting attorney and member of the school board.

Mr. Moore was born March 30, 1866, at Mornington, Ontario, and lived in Port Huron all except seven years of his life. After graduating from Michigan State in 1889 he taught public school several terms in St. Clair county.

After being admitted to the bar in 1892 he was associated with the late Eugene Law, '83, but for the past 30 years he has held a law partnership with J. Frank Wilson, known as the firm of Moore and Wilson.

Upon hearing of his passing, his close friend and college classmate, E. N. Pagelson, wrote the following note from Panama City, Florida:

"Alexander Moore of our class passed away on September 5, and future alumni meetings will hardly be the same without his jovial presence. He had a special aptitude for friendships and his hearty greetings will be missed by all who ever came under his influence. The following extract from the resolutions adopted by the St. Clair county bar association expresses the opinion of those who knew him best:

"He probably knew more St. Clair county residents than any other man in the county. And because of his readiness to help, every one who knew him was a friend. His cordial manner, kind heart and friendly disposition made him welcome everywhere and his death will cause many to regret the loss of a friend.

"A man honest and honorable, a lawyer of standing among his fellows, fair in his dealings and practices, a citizen with the best interest of his community at heart, he was a worthy member of the bar, whose death we deeply regret."

At the time of his death Mr. Moore was president of the Gratiot Inn company, president of the Port Huron Building and Loan association and secretary-treasurer of the Port Huron Terminal company. He was active in lodge organizations, the First Methodist Episcopal church and many civic enterprises. In college he was a member of the Electic society.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blanche Haywood Moore, a brother William, and a sister, Mrs. Esther Methven, Port Huron.
