"A MANGO DOES NOT BECOME A GREAT TREE IN ITS FIRST DAY, BUT LIKE A GROWING MANGO TREE, WE ARE DEEPLY ROOTED IN THE SOIL THAT IS OUR PEOPLE, AND THE MASSES ARE NOW TASTING THE FIRST FRUITS" - SAMORA MACHEL

SEPT 25, 1970

There cannot be a partial or a peaceful struggle against colonialism . . . it must be a war, because our enemies want it to be a war, they who would not come to consider us men in any other way. Since the essence of their relations with us and our country is violence, they don't understand any other form of being. And it must be war because we want it to be war, we who want to assert our identity over any form of violence. Only through a struggle to death can we come out as a new people with a real strength.

Eduardo Chivambo Mondlane
President, FRELIMO, 1962 - 1969
Assassinated February 3, 1969.
